Santa Ana moves from the county seat to Orange. Someone told him it was a few inches higher than this place, and he was afraid the river levees might not be finished in time and there would be too much water and cold feet. Name of this timid citizen on application, at so much per app.

The trouble with getting rich quick is that someone who has the authority might ask you how.

Curiosity may have killed the cat, but it never put a wheel on an automobile. Spectators were of no more help, either, so the car which lost a wheel at Fifth and Main had to wait for the garage tow truck, and the mechanic did what curiosity failed to do.

Fog driving isn't one of the delights in automotive transportation. Fog lights help some, but the sunlight is better. Friend who drove in from San Diego in a dense obscurity had to call on one of those professional men who puts your neck back in place.

And then there was the fellow who walked through the signals at First and Main and gave as a reason his intense concentration upon something other than signs, and couldn't tell what he was thinking about when asked how he happened to violate traffic signals.

Invitation to attend the Sam Collins annual round-up at Fullerton. This is the eighteenth year that Sam has provided the version, but not the same buck. So I'm going, which is real nerve, especially when you are not a candidate. Sam has returned, so the literature claims, from a trip into the Kai-chah forest, with a very fine buck deer, but it does not say whose deer. That isn't so very important if you can eat it. The temptation is sufficient, so I herewith notify candidates that if they think my vote is worth it they can make provision for transportation there, and back again.

150 Witnesses to Be Questioned About Radicals

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Two members of the house committee investigating un-Americanism will go to California in mid-winter to question 150 witnesses about Communist activities in the state.

Chairman Dies (D., Tex.), making the announcement, said the subcommittee probably would consist of Representatives Starnes (D., Ala.) and Mosier (D., Ohio).

NO HEARING TODAY
Dies called off today's hearing, giving no reason. He had said earlier he intended to call a witness to testify on possible links between American organizations and the loyalist forces in Spain.

The committee already has heard considerable testimony about Communism in California. Harper Knowles, a Legionnaire, testified Wednesday that three Democratic candidates in the state had Communist sympathizers—an assertion which brought several denials.

LEGION HEAD TALKS
Henry G. Watters, California commander of the American Legion, disclaimed responsibility for Knowles' testimony in a statement at San Francisco last night.

Watters said Knowles might even have listed the Legion among organizations having radicals on its rolls.

"I realize," he added, "that it probably would be impossible for any organization to be able to boast of the fact that they were entirely free of radical members."

President Roosevelt's criticism of the committee and the reply of Chairman Dies still were producing repercussions. Mr. Roosevelt had said the committee did not try to get at the truth of testimony that Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan acted treasonably in handling a 1937 sit-down strike.

REGRETS TO F. D. R.
"One of the witnesses—John M. Barringer, former Flint city manager—wrote the President last night:

"It is regrettable that you did not concern yourself with the one-sided, un-American manner in which the LaFollette (Civil Liberties) committee conducted its hearings."

"My criticism of Governor Murphy was based on his refusal to fight off mob rule of the city."

Japanese Traders Losing No Time

SHANGHAI. (AP)—As evidence of the closeness with which Japanese trade follows military conquests, 2000 cases of Japanese beer were unloaded today on the Hankow bund within three days of the fall of Hankow.

A salesman for Japanese typewriters reached Hankow almost with the flag, and started taking orders.

Leaflet Fight to Be Warm

Brisk legal maneuvering between district attorney's deputies and a suspended deputy sheriff acting as his own attorney was in prospect today, as three defendants prepared to face preliminary hearing tomorrow on criminal conspiracy charges in the "Fools Rush In" pamphlet case.

Tomorrow's three defendants, who will face Justice Chris Pann in local justice court, are G. F. McKelvey, suspended sheriff's deputy; Charles Ott, former railroad man; and J. Malin Green, young editor of a political weekly.

OWN ATTORNEY
McKelvey, arrested with the other two Monday night, is reported to be prepared to act as his own attorney. He has subpoenaed as defense witnesses all 19 members of the specially-called grand jury, before which he was examined during the pamphlet investigation.

If McKelvey expects to call the jury as witnesses to testify before the grand jury, he may meet with stiff objections from Asst. Dist. Atty. Preston Turner and Deputy Dist. Atty. J. E. Walker, who are expected to prosecute.

PREPARE TO FIGHT
Turner and Walker said today they had not prepared authorities on the subject, but indicated they might stand on a penal code section prohibiting grand jurors from revealing testimony of witnesses except as material with which to impeach witnesses who testified both in court and before the grand jury.

"Every grand juror," the penal code reads, " . . . may be required by any court to disclose the testimony of a witness examined before the grand jury for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is consistent with that given by the witness before the court . . ."

MANY CALLED
Numerous subpoenas have been served on other persons, indicating the little courtroom may be packed when the hearing begins at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Among witnesses expected to be called are George Holden, candidate for district attorney, who was attacked in the pamphlet; A. E. Berry, editor of the tabloid weekly Independent, also attacked; detectives, officers and others concerned in the investigation.

Indications were the hearing would get only a bare start by time for noon adjournment tomorrow, and would be continued to Monday morning, when three more defendants—Printers Burt Harwick and Robert Elliott and Distributor Eddie Taylor—will appear for their hearings.

Mother Dies in Tavern Bet; Baby

CHICAGO. (AP)—Arlene Richlin's mother, tavern employee, bet $5 she could drink a pint of whiskey in an hour. Arlene is 3 years old.

When she had consumed three-quarters of the pint she collapsed and died.

Today a jury awarded Arlene $2500 damages for her death. The tavern owners must pay under the dram shop act which holds tavern keepers responsible for acts performed by persons under the influence of liquor obtained in their establishments.

Rail Wage Report
Due Tomorrow

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today his special fact-finding board seeing to avert a nationwide railroad strike against a 15 per cent wage cut would file its report with him at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Under the national mediation act, neither the wage nor the strike already voted by almost 1,000,000 railroad workers, can become effective for 30 days after the board's report is filed.

Miner In Front of Her New Cabin
10-Year-Old Kentucky Girl Weds

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—Rosalie Columbus has a husband today.

Dr. L. B. Sheppard, Johnson county health officer, said today records in his office showed the girl is 10 years old. She was married Monday to 34-year-old Fleming Tackett, a widowed coal miner.

The marriage license was obtained at the Floyd county courthouse here by the girl's mother, Mrs. Grace Columbus, who gave Rosalie's age as 15. At Paintsville, Dr. Sheppard said health office records showed the girl was born in Johnson county Feb. 12, 1928.

The Rev. W. G. Ratliff, employed as a coal mine blacksmith, said he pronounced the marriage vows in a simple hill country ceremony in front of a newly constructed log cabin near here where the couple will live. Coal blackened miners looked on silently during the ceremony.

The two-room cabin is located on Abbott creek three miles north of Prestonsburg in an isolated section of rugged eastern Kentucky mountain country. In it, with Rosalie and her "Flem," will live the girl's mother and father, Jim, two younger brothers, an older sister and some in-laws.

But it means luxury to Rosalie. A dozen miners said Rosalie and her family had lived under a rock

NAZI POLICE ROUT HUNDREDS OF POLISH JEWS OUT OF BEDS

BERLIN. (AP)—Authoritative informants said today that the Nazi authorities already had sent several thousand Polish Jews living in Germany back into Poland following a nationwide round up.

In Berlin alone several hundred Polish Jews were routed from their beds in early morning raids semi-officially explained as intended to forestall application of a new Polish law that might deprive thousands of Jews in Germany of Polish citizenship.

The German government estimated that 150,000 residents of Germany are Polish citizens. According to a Polish law coming into effect Oct. 30 all these by that date must have their passports revalidated by Polish consulates.

Jewish circles estimated that the law applied to between 4000 and 6000 Jews in Germany.

Failure to obtain such revalidation will mean that the passport holder never again can enter Poland.

Only men were held. Hundreds of Jewish women lined up outside two Berlin police barracks, hoping to see their relatives.

The women were permitted to leave battered suitcases, blankets, food and cigarettes for the prisoners, but were not allowed to see them.

VIENNA. (AP)—Nazi party officials seized Vienna's famous Jewish museum, the property of the Israelitic cultural community, today.

FLIERS KILL U. S. CHILD

HANKOW. (AP)—An American child was killed and her mother and sister wounded in a Japanese air attack Oct. 24 on a Lutheran Brethren mission, belated reports here disclosed today.

Phoebe Olive Nyhus, 3, was killed and her sister, Ruth, 8, and her mother were wounded, the report said, when Japanese planes destroyed the mission at Tungpei, in southern Honan province, despite American flags marking the building.

The report came from the father, Arthur Nyhus of Fertile, Iowa, the only member of the family unscathed in the bombardment.

He moved the injured survivors of his family to Tangsho, also in Honan, where he telegraphed United States Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson at Chungking, China's new provisional capital.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Although the wife of a Los Angeles contractor used his wife of beating and kicking him and said that in order to please her he had moved his residence 35 times in eight different cities and four states, he told superior Judge Walter S. Gates today that he still loves her.

Whereupon, Judge Gates postponed the divorce case for one month and advised the couple to get together during the Thanksgiving holidays and try to make something out of the wreck of their 26 years of married life.

Utilities To Spend 2 Billions

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A dozen big utility companies, joining hands with the federal government in its national defense program, disclosed today they would spend $2,000,000,000 in the next two years to expand the output of electric power.

This amount, said Floyd L. Carlisle of the Consolidated Edison company of New York, would virtually double present such expenditures.

As the first step, the utilities announced "definite commitments" for enough factory orders to supply generating equipment capable of producing 1,000,000 kilowatts.

TO AID DEFENSE
The commitments were given as a part of the administration's efforts to strengthen power facilities of the nation's strategic war material manufacturing centers.

Announcement of the program came from a session of the national defense power committee headed by Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, which has been making a survey of power needs since early this year.

Carlisle, acting as spokesman for the group of utilities executives which met with the power committee, said "substantial" government financing was involved, but would not be in the form of grants.

1 1/2 MILLION HORSEPOWER
The government, he said, would do nothing more than lend money or buy securities, in the same manner as a bank.

The utilities executives said the new equipment for 1,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity represented about one and one-third million horsepower to the total produced by any two or three mid-western southeastern cities.

New York City's generating capacity, they estimated, is about 2,900,000 horsepower.

Stressing that the commitments were "not the final step" Johnson indicated the administration hoped other utilities would agree shortly to enter the expansion program.

IN MUNITIONS AREA
The areas directly affected by the projected construction are in part those in which the production of munitions and other war materials would be in great demand in the event of hostilities, a war department announcement said.

"It is understood that for war or other emergency purposes, the government shall have just call upon the facilities of the industry, both public and private and that in peace time they will be coordinated for the purpose of making them quickly available," the war department said.

Collection Plate To Go in Reverse

WALTON, N. Y. (AP)—They're going to pass the plate in reverse at the First Methodist church here Sunday.

The Rev. Grant Robinson explained today that every member of the congregation will take one dollar from the plate instead of putting something on it.

"Each," he added, "will invest the dollar in any way he believes may be profitable and will later return the dollar and the profits to the church."

Couple Fast to Force China Gift

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Pan Pihcheng and his bride of four months began the fast of a hunger strike today. They hoped to force his wealthy parents to contribute 4,000,000 Chinese dollars (nominally $640,000) to help the Chinese cause against Japan.

The couple declared unless he gave 4,000,000 Chinese dollars they would starve to death, leaving the father without a son to carry on the family line.

Chamberlain Win Seen in Election

LONDON. (AP)—The winner gave Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain credit today for a conservative party victory in the first parliamentary by-election since Chamberlain participated in the four-power German-Czechoslovak accord.

"It is not my victory, but Chamberlain's," said Conservative party Member Quintin Hogg who received 15,797 votes against 12,363 for A. D. Lindsay.

Lancaster Fliers Still in the Air

LANCASTER, Calif. (AP)—Two fliers attempting to set a new plane flight endurance record were still in the air today, determined to stay there until nearly 6 a. m. tomorrow. They will break the present record of 136 hours 10 minutes if they are able to hold out that long. The plane went up at 1:25 p. m. Sunday.

PREVENTOR OF NECK KINKING ON DISPLAY

CHICAGO. (AP)—Have you ever dozed in your automobile while the little woman was shopping, and awakened with a kink in the neck that took three days to unwind?

An invention exhibited today at the national inventors' congress headquarters by Garriott L. McClellan of Cincinnati was designed for the relief of such snoozers.

Likewise, he says, it can be used by the fellow who sneaks a little nap in the office and doesn't want to get a stiff neck that might betray him to the boss.

It's a head support made of aluminum lined with soft rubber. It fits snugly around the neck like a collar, has adjustable braces and McClellan claims it enables one to sleep comfortably in a sitting position.

Then there's a gadget fashioned by L. J. Arms of San Francisco, aimed to eliminate the great American hazard of slipping on the cake of soap in the bathtub.

Arms made a bath sponge with the center hollowed out in which can be inserted a slim piece of soap.

These were just a couple of the latest crop of inventions, among nearly 25,000 which Ray Lane, public relations director, said come to the attention of congress each year.

U. S. Air Corps Reveals New Six-Mile-a-Minute Fighting Plane

EVEN FASTER SHIP SOON TO BE ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A six-mile-a-minute war plane is the army's immediate answer to European rivalry for speed supremacy in the air.

A 360-mile flight in 61 minutes from Dayton, O., to Buffalo, N. Y., yesterday by Lieut. Benjamin S. Kelsey lifted the wraps from a pursuit ship about which the air corps previously had little to say.

The plane, the Curtiss P-37, already has passed the experimental stage. An initial squadron of 13 ordered last December soon will be delivered, officials said.

Without halting to gloat over the P-37, the army intends to announce in a few days another and presumably even faster plane. Designed the P-40, it is an experimental job, and most details will not be disclosed for the present.

Both Germany and Great Britain have combat planes for which they have boasted even greater speed than that attained by the P-37. But the air corps has a ready answer.

Lieut. Kelsey's flight and earlier trials, which were kept secret, were made with full military equipment. Germany claimed some 380 miles an hour for its Messerschmidt, but reports here are that it was stripped for racing.

Although Britain's Spitfire exceeded 400 miles an hour, it was aided by a 75-mile tailwind, American officials contended.

Officials took particular satisfaction in the performance of the American plane because high powered bombers, both here and abroad, have been threatening to outspeed the pursuit ship, whose primary function is to intercept the bombers.

Early today the navy's new $1,000,000 experimental bomber successfully completed a 14-hour, non-stop flight from San Diego, Calif., to the naval air station here.

Carrying a crew of 15, the huge craft is said to be capable of flying 4000 miles without refueling.

After months of testing a single experimental model, the army gave a $531,305 order to the Curtiss plant at Buffalo for the first P-37 squadron.

Arabs Kept From Churches of U. S.

LONDON. (AP)—A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Jerusalem said today that Arab leaders had forbidden Arab Christians to attend American-controlled Protestant churches in the Holy land.

The dispatch said the Arab leaders charged that the American attitude in Palestine's racial strife was pro-Jewish.

L. A. JOB PROBE SCOPE WIDER

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Inquiry of alleged irregularities in the conduct of Los Angeles' civil service department, heretofore concerned only with the fire and police departments, was broadened today to include the engineering department and the bureau of water and power, two largest subdivisions of the municipal government.

Investigators admitted they had turned their attention to the two departments after lengthy questioning of Glenn Gravatt, suspended general manager of the civil service department.

Information in the hands of investigators was reported to have linked the alleged "job-selling" system to all departments of the city government. In all, more than 20,000 men and women are employed in city jobs under civil service ratings.

Czechoslovakia, 20 Years Old Today, Lacks Spirit or Time for Big Celebration

PRAGUE. (AP)—Czechoslovakia came today to her 20th birthday with little spirit or time for celebration. Instead her efforts to cut her political and industrial life to the pattern of her new, diminished size continued without pause.

The Czechoslovak state, now dismembered by the Munich conference and reduced in wealth and power, came into existence on Oct. 28, 1918, when the national council took over the territory which had belonged to the Austro-Hungarian empire.

R. C. A. DIVIDEND
NEW YORK. (AP)—Directors of Radio corporation of America today ordered a dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, the second common dividend in the history of the corporation.

BAG PUNCHING RIGHT UPHELD

BOSTON. (AP)—Sixty-three-year-old Mrs. Mary Sullivan had permission today to continue bag punching as exercise to help her arthritis notwithstanding objections of her south Boston neighbors who didn't like the noise.

Major Peter Borre, a master appointed by Suffolk court to hear their objections, reported the noise "does not in fact constitute a disturbance or a nuisance."

"I am of the opinion," he wrote, "that the volume and the effect of the noise complained of was more or less illuminated by imagination and peculiar sensitivity to the noise on the part of some of the witnesses."

Mrs. Sullivan, whose back yard bag punching was suggested by her amateur boxer son, said: "This is the great moment of my life."

CONTRACT FOR LEVEES WILL BE LET TODAY

County supervisors this afternoon were to let the long-delayed contract for construction of nearly 20 miles of levees to protect homes and crops from possible flood damage this winter.

Basch Bros. of Los Angeles apparently was low bidder among eight contractors submitting bids today, Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson reported to the board. Exact figure was not known, but it was thought to be slightly under $150,000.

Following approval by State Engineer Edward Hyatt, expected by this afternoon, the county board was to let the contract for the work on the Santa Ana river, and also smaller contracts for work on San Juan and Hickey creeks.

$150 Enough for 'Decent Living' S. F. Judge Says

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A $150 a month salary is sufficient to provide a decent living, Federal Judge A. F. St. Sure said today when he sentenced Jurgen D. Rasmussen, 32, to five years imprisonment for embezzling $12,842 from the bank that employed him.

Rasmussen, 14 years an employee of the Anglo-California National bank here, admitted using the money for race track gambling.

The judge denied the probation plea that $150 a month was a small salary with which "to dress well and maintain a bank clerk's social standing."

JAPS PREPARE NEW ADVANCE

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Japanese troops captured Sianning, 50 miles south of fallen Hankow, today and established a spearhead for an advance down the Hankow-Canton railway toward strategic Yochow.

The invaders thus followed up their conquest of Hankow by slashing off a vast swampy area, and asserted they trapped large numbers of fleeing Chinese troops.

War maps showed, however, that an unoccupied corridor about 20 miles wide between the railroad and the Yangtze river would allow the fugitives to cross the stream or retreat to Yochow, a Tung Ting lake city that controls both the Yangtze and the Canton-Hankow line 110 miles southwest of Hankow.

Strange Case of Equine Murder Has L. A. Puzzled

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Authorities investigated today the strange case of equine murder.

Bear Flag, owned in partnership by Jock Moore, movie actor; Mrs. Lula Shultz, his mother-in-law, and Johnny Armstrong, trainer, was found dead in the corral today, a bullet wound in his head.

Moore said the race horse, purchased last March, was out of Miss Plunger by Constitution, a son of Man o' War. He could not explain why anyone would want to shoot the animal.

He said the horse had won several races at Agua Caliente and the Pomona fair.

SKY CLEARING, SAYS IL DUCE

ROME. (AP)—Premier Mussolini told Fascists celebrating the 16th anniversary of the march on Rome today that "the political horizon is clearing" with promise of further improvement.

"The clearing of the political horizon is becoming accentuated and is continually becoming more vast and promising," il duce declared before crowds massed under his balcony in the Piazza di Venezia.

"But we Fascists continue and will continue to march with the same inflexible energy with which we marched in the eve of that never-to-be-forgotten October."

Associated Farmers and Legion Disclaim Red Testimony Responsibility

CRESCENDO OF CRITICISM IN STATE GROWS

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A crescendo of criticism against testimony before a house committee investigating un-Americanism grew in California today, while three organizations disclaimed any connection with Harper Knowles, one of the witnesses who testified in the probe.

Knowles, chairman of the American Legion's state radical research committee, climaxed testimony in Washington by claiming three California Democratic candidates had communistic connections.

The testimony caused a decided repercussion in political circles and brought formal denial from the American Legion that Knowles spoke for them before the Dies committee.

DISCLAIMED BY ALL
A San Francisco granite concern, from which he is on leave of absence, disclaimed any knowledge of his activities, as did the Associated Farmers of California, scheduled for investigation by the LaFollette Civil Liberties committee.

Knowles served as secretary for the Associated Farmers for a time, but took a leave of absence from this post.

The Legion disclaimer came from Department Commander Henry G. Waters here after former Commander Dan W. Emmett telegraphed from Los Angeles that Knowles "was a paid propagandist of certain industrial associations that are opposed to labor in every form."

Commander Waters said he did not know where Knowles obtained his information, or for whom he was speaking.

SPEAKS FOR SELF
"I suppose he is speaking for himself," said Dr. Waters. "He is not speaking for us."

Knowles' assertion that John G. Clark, Democratic state campaign chairman, and Ellis Patterson, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, were communists, and that Culbert L. Olson, Democratic candidate for governor had accepted a communistic program, brought vigorous denials.

His claim that Sheridan Downey, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, had been the running mate of "Communist" Upton Sinclair, also brought fiery denials from the two men.

The attack on Olson prompted Emmett's protest to Dr. Waters. "On behalf of thousands of Legionnaires supporting Senator Olson for governor and for the welfare of the American Legion I respectfully request that you openly and immediately repudiate the Knowles statement as representing the American Legion and keep the American Legion out of California politics," Emmett telegraphed.

"VICIOUS ATTACK"

Knowles' testimony and that of Ray Nimmo, Los Angeles, had repercussions elsewhere than in politics, as revealed in telegrams to the Dies committee.

Bruce Hannon, San Francisco, secretary-treasurer of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, called statements by Knowles a

'I'm Not Out of Picture,' Says Legionnaire Who Launched Expose Of Conditions in Juvenile Home

R. S. Norton, prominent legionnaire who exposed conditions affecting juvenile delinquents in Orange county, quit the chairmanship of the legion's district child welfare committee, but he is not "out of the picture now or in the future insofar as the child welfare program in Orange county is concerned," he said in a statement today. The statement follows in full:

"Because the juvenile court and detention home situation in which I have become involved may still be confusing to citizens of Orange county and members of American Legion posts, I wish to make the following statement.

I wish to state here and now that the action taken by a few members of the County Council of the American Legion bears all the earmarks of being politically inspired, and these few members are the same ones who said that my motives were politically inspired. The action these few members of the County Council took in condemning me for bringing to the attention of the council the juvenile court and detention home situation does not represent the voice of the rank and file of the American Legion.

REPORT QUOTED

I was and am still justified in taking the action I did because of the mandates laid down by the national Child Welfare Commission of the American Legion in convention assembled in 1937 at New York City. The same action was endorsed at the recent convention held in Los Angeles. I will quote excerpts from the report of that commission and approved by the convention, later published in the April issue of the National Legionnaire. The heading says "Square Deal For Every Child Aim of Child Welfare Division." The following were passed unanimously:

Article D, Section 1—Child Welfare Services, or as might better be termed "extension of services to children in need,"—how we can best use those services; use of such services in promoting coordinated community endeavor and resources, and how we can best assist in the extension of these services to bring them to the great number of children needing them.

"REAL LEGION ACTION"
Section 2 Treatment, reduction and prevention of juvenile delinquency must have the attention of our organization, not merely as a subject to talk about but one for real Legion action. This action should perhaps be described as:

"vicious and unwarranted attack" upon maritime labor.

Randolph Meriwether, secretary of the Marine Engineers Beneficial association, protested "slandering character accusations against me by Harper Knowles."

Dr. Louis Bloch, a member of the federal maritime labor board, here to mediate several disputes, termed "absurd, ridiculous and nonsensical," a charge he was a former member of the professional unit of the Communist party in California.

vided into several parts, namely:

36 CELLS IN HOME

(a) Encouraging the coordination of community endeavor and resources so that the entire interested public will be working together to the same end without duplication of effort or expense.

RESOLUTION GIVEN

Section 3. Following through on special child welfare activities that may be of special interest or meet a peculiar need of the community involved. There are problems that are peculiar to a community and the answer to such a situation must be found in that community. The American Legion post is a community asset and should act in accordance with the need of the community.

Here is the resolution approved at the Legion convention in Los Angeles: Be it resolved, that the practical nationwide program for the American Legion to prevent juvenile delinquency be commended, as embodied in the booklet, "Our Children's Future" as recently issued jointly by the National Americanism commission, National Child Welfare committee, and that the posts and departments of the Legion be urged to make the effectuation of this program in their own communities a major activity during the coming year, in order to curb the alarming situation as to juvenile delinquency now existing in this country.

QUITS POST

I tendered my resignation as district child welfare chairman so as not to further embarrass my 21st district commander, a gentleman and a loyal and hard-working Legionnaire and the rank and file of the American Legion. I was accused and convicted without proper hearing conducted by the proper constituted authority as provided in the Legion trial manual.

APPRECIATES SUPPORT

I wish publicly to thank those comrades who stood by me and also those whose desire and intent was to clarify in the minds of the public of Orange county the position of the Legion. For those that were motivated politically I hold no brief.

Now, as to my entering into the conditions that do exist in the detention home and the juvenile court I say this: In no wise was my action politically inspired. When I first asked the county council on Oct. 14 to help correct the situation, no names were mentioned, and the council voted unanimously to make an investigation. Furthermore, prior to Oct. 19 I had never personally met Judge Ames and prior to Oct. 22 I had never personally met James L. Davis. I also wish to state that I supported Jim Tucker in the primaries and had not until the last few days made any decision as to my choice in the coming elections.

It is the duty of every loyal Legionnaire to interest himself so far as possible in the child welfare program irrespective of any political significance. Our duty to the youth of our country is far greater than the political ambitions of any individual or group of individuals and with no limitations as to time.

DOES HIS DUTY

Facts and figures pertaining to the juvenile situation in Orange county were brought to my attention so forcibly and conclusively that I would have been dilatory in my obligations as a district chairman if I had not brought my information before the properly constituted Legion body of Orange county, which I did. And I hope loyal Legionnaires who know my previous record will agree that I did my duty. I am not responsible because there happened to be persons present unknown to me at that time and over whom I had no control as to their subsequent actions that did make some of my charges public property. I will say, however, that the report given to the newspapers was correctly stated, but in most cases the papers did not use the report as handed them with the result that the published articles were confusing and erroneous.

After I had made my report to the county council of the American Legion a motion was made that a committee be appointed to investigate the charges as stated by me and as the maker of those charges. I had a perfect right to continue along those lines, and as chairman of the 21st district child welfare committee it was not my intention nor that of the council that the investigating committee make public our findings until the charges had been fully substantiated. But the matter got out of our hands through no fault or desire of ours.

At this time I wish to give my personal observations of the existing conditions at our detention home, to wit:

I spent four hours at the detention home and find that the children were not underfed or subjected to corporal punishment. I was misinformed. There are in the neighborhood of 36 cells in this institution that are used as sleeping quarters and about eight solitary confinement cells where children are kept until their case is decided by the juvenile court.

In one case a girl was kept in solitary confinement for three weeks until she agreed to take shots supposed to cure her assumed condition. There is no segregation of those having social diseases but all possible precautions are taken in their care and treatment. There is a decided lack of vocational and recreational facilities. There is no place provided, especially for the boys, for assembly after the evening meals for purposes of reading, harmless indoor recreation, etc. There is no segregation of those children that are being held until disposition has been made of their cases who are wards of the county and those that are juvenile delinquents. It is not my intention to attempt at this time of suggesting ways and means of correcting or of placing the responsibility for existing conditions at the home. I further wish to state that I can find no fault with the personnel of the home. I also want to state that if in any manner I have done them any injustice I wish to apologize for same.

PARENTS INTERVIEWED

Now as to the juvenile courts. The figures I gave regarding the commitments made to Preston and Whittier schools are substantiated by statistical reports published by the state of California, and are without a doubt correct, but bear in mind that there are three superior court judges that deal with cases of minors.

The thing that I am primarily

WRIT TIES UP WINE PRORATE

UKIAH. (AP)—Superior Judge W. D. L. Head today signed orders for preliminary injunctions against the California grape prorate commission sought by four Mendocino county dry wine grape vintners and growers.

When he approved the preliminary injunctions a week ago, the judge delayed signing the orders so that the commission might apply to the supreme court for a writ of prohibition, if it so desired. This action was not taken.

The commission, however, recently was granted a Sacramento appellate court order to the Sonoma Dry Wine Grape Growers' association to show cause why a Sonoma county superior court injunction against the commission should not be dissolved.

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK TWICE

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The White House announced today that President Roosevelt would speak from his Hyde Park, N. Y., home Nov. 4, in connection with the dedication of the Will Rogers Memorial at Claremore, Okla.

The speech will be made at 11 a. m. (P. S. T.).

A previous arranged address, in which the President is expected to endorse the New York Democratic ticket, will be delivered at 4:30 p. m. (P. S. T.) instead of the originally designated of 9:30. Both of the President's addresses will be nationally broadcast.

Interested in is the alarming figures in Orange county and what we intend to do about it.

As to the courts unless the documentary evidence and the statements made to me by the parents of 20 or more children are unfounded, I honestly believe that they rightfully feel that they or their children did not receive proper consideration, and hence their bitter attitude in some cases, and a wholesome desire on their part that your children are not treated the same as theirs. I have promised these parents, ex-

Germany Has Unequaled Air Force, Declares American On His Return From Berlin

NEW YORK. (AP)—Daniel W. Tomlinson of Kansas City, assistant vice-president of Transcontinental & Western Airlines, said today Germany would have had complete control of the air within two weeks had war resulted from the Czechoslovakian crisis.

Tomlinson, a lieutenant commander in the U. S. naval reserve, returned from Germany aboard the liner Bremen after attending in Berlin a meeting of the Lillenthal society at which experts from almost every country, Russia excepted, read papers on aviation developments.

"The German air force is without equal in the world," Tomlinson said, "in respect to the number and performance of aircraft. It is important to mention that their manufacturing facilities could easily produce 3000 to 5000 planes a month."

"The United States is definitely inferior to Germany in the number and performance of military airplanes, while I should say individual fighters are about on a par. The German factories are organized on a scale beyond anything even considered in the United States."

Tomlinson said "one of the greatest factors contributing to their superiority is their system of government which eliminates labor troubles."

"For example," he said, "their major factories have homes and medical clinics for their workers and own their own farms. They are private factories subsidized by the government."

"But most important is that they have apprentice schools which take boys between 14 and 15 and give them four years of training. When they are finished, they are highly skilled workers."

cepting those that did not so state, that I would refrain from making public their case and I shall keep that trust unless forced to do so by the courts. I have no political appointment aspirations.

Lastly, I wish to state that I am not out of the picture now or in the future insofar as the child welfare program in Orange county is concerned.

BIG SEAPLANE CROSSES U. S.

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The navy's huge new bomber, landing here early today after a 13-hour, 55-minute trip from San Diego, Calif., completed what naval officials said was the first non-stop transcontinental flight for a seaplane of its size.

The ship has been accepted conditionally by the navy, and is now undergoing test flights.

The ship carries four Pratt & Whitney engines of 14 cylinders and 900 horsepower each. It has a wing span of 115 feet, is 77 feet, 3 inches long and 28 feet, 3 inches high.

Known variously in early Scottish history as Skye terrier, Highland, Cairn, and Scots terrier, although that dog bore no resemblance to Skyes and Cairns of today. Nicknamed the "die-hard" for stout heart and unquenchable love for sport. Extremely independent.

HE'S GIVING HIS NERVES A REST...

AND SO IS HE

LIKE humans, dogs have a complicated set of nerves. But dogs are kinder to their nerves than we. They rest when they need rest... while we plunge ahead with our hurry and worry—straining our nerves to keep up with the fast pace. We can't turn back to the natural paces of life like an animal, but we can protect, soothe, and calm our nerves. Smoking a Camel can be your pleasant method for breaking nerve tension. Camels are wild, with the flavor of a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos. Smokers find Camel's mild tobaccos delightfully soothing—soothing—to the nerves.

SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE ADVISE

"Let up—light up a Camel"

DID YOU KNOW:

—that tobacco plants are "topped" when they put out their seed-head? That this improves the quality of leaf tobacco? That most cigarette tobacco is harvested by "priming"—removing each leaf by hand? Camel buyers know where choice grades of tobacco are—those that cure nicely—the mild, ripe, fragrant tobaccos. Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS... Turkish and Domestic.

G. O. P. WOMAN RAPS OLSON AND DOWNEY

Democratic Candidates Culbert Olson, Sheridan Downey and Ellis Patterson were lambasted last night by Mrs. W. E. Evans of Glendale, vice chairman of the Republican state central committee and president of the California council of Republican women, speaking in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Evans attacked the three Democratic candidates' "chameleon records" and said they now were "trying to change colors again and can't quite do it."

"One thing a woman always demands of a man," she said, "is that she can believe what he says." She cited Downey's utterances before the primary election on the "ham and eggs" pension plan and quoted a telegram assertedly sent by Olson to Sherman Bainbridge Aug. 15 in which he "unequivocally endorsed" the warrant plan.

Olson, Mrs. Evans said, has voted for the single tax, the oil severance tax and the unicameral legislature, all of which she said would be detrimental to Orange county's interests. She said Patterson had voted "red" on 28 out of 30 "Communist" bills in the legislature.

"What has become of the Communists?" she asked. "There were 150,000 of them behind Anita Whitney, and now there are only 1500 in the party. They must have gone somewhere, and they have gone to Olson."

The speaker said the issue in this campaign, so far as her organization is concerned, has simmered down to "solvency of the state." She praised Gov. Frank Merriam's administration for balancing the budget and warned her listeners against "visionaries" who would "tinker with the state's financial structure."

Mrs. Frank Rospaw of Placentia was chairman; and Col. M. B. Wellington of Santa Ana introduced the speaker.

The largest of the individual projects to be proposed by Major Wyman will be in the Burbank western area.

Wide Interest in Naval Base Sites Puzzles President

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt remarked today that he could not understand why there was so much interest in learning the location of new naval bases.

The President was asked at his press conference whether new naval and aerial bases would be set up along the Atlantic coast.

His response was that it was a very interesting thing why people were trying to find out where the bases were located.

He added he wondered why everybody was so interested in the question.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

(This column deals with Townsend news and views. Any opinions which are expressed herein are not necessarily those of The Journal.)

The Costa Mesa Republicans and Townsendsites will hold a Johnson for Congress rally in the auditorium of the grammar school building at 7:30 next Tuesday evening, Nov. 1. The idea has been promoted by Mrs. Lena Burdick and Dr. C. G. Huston of that city. The plans include a short concert by the Costa Mesa Hill Billies orchestra, some other entertainment and Mayor C. T. Johnson of San Bernardino as the main speaker. The Republican and Townsendsites of other coast line towns are requested to make preparations to attend and give the candidate a real audience to address. This will probably be the only opportunity many of the people of the coast area will have to hear the congressional candidate before election.

The ward captains and the precinct workers are all working hard these days calling on the homes of the communities, distributing literature and urging the people to vote for the Townsend endorsed candidates. The Townsend plan will be made the law of the land because of just such sacrifices on the part of the Townsendsites whose names seldom get into print but who are always on the job when there is work to be done. One problem has hindered this work and that has been the inability to get proper literature for distribution. Money has been scarce with both the Republicans and Townsendsites resulting in a curtailed ability to properly advertise the qualifications of our candidates.

Orange club No. 2 is meeting tonight in the Townsend club building located at 131 South Glassell street, Mr. Abbie Gould will preside. Last week this club planned on having Mayor C. T. Johnson of San Bernardino as its speaker. The congressional candidate was unable to make such connections and as a result the writer had to pinch-hit in his place for one and one-half hours. It was hard on the audience but great patience was exhibited and after the speech another half hour was taken up in community singing and by that time it was 10 o'clock p. m., and then it was decided that Mayor Johnson wasn't coming. The whole situation was accepted in a spirit of good humor on the part of the audience. The Townsend pledge was taken and the meeting adjourned.

Don't forget to tell your friends and neighbors about the Orange County Townsend mass meeting being held in Santa Ana Townsend hall at 7:30 tomorrow night. The Costa Mesa Hill Billies orchestra will start things off with a half hour concert beginning at 7 o'clock. This group of musicians is very popular as a dance orchestra and when you hear them tomorrow night you will know why. Mrs. Lena Burdick is the director of the organization. Speakers on the program included Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Mapes and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob C. Best all of whom have been in the east during the summer. They will tell of conditions among Townsendsites as they found it in that portion of the United States. Walter R. Robb, Orange county organizer will act as master of ceremonies.

The report comes that the Townsendsites had a fine time last Tuesday evening at Laguna Beach when a pot-luck dinner was served in the American Legion hall and an entertainment program enjoyed. The tables were loaded with all kinds of delicacies and the guests of the evening were royally waited upon by the local Townsend ladies. A large audience was

ANNOUNCEMENT

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Edith Paul, Townsend club will not meet tonight as scheduled, but will hold a meeting of special interest next Friday at the regular time.

L. A. TEACHERS HIT BILL NO. 1

The Affiliated Teachers of Los Angeles today had taken action denouncing proposition No. 1—the labor initiative—appearing on the November ballot, according to word received here today by the local committee opposing the proposition.

The teachers denounced the proposed bill, it was announced, as being "so sweeping in scope that teachers and other citizens might be guilty of a felony for expressing themselves about an industrial controversy in which they themselves were in no sense participants."

The executive council of the teachers' association said it is the council's belief "that it is its duty to warn teachers of the threat to professional organizations contained in the measure."

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Charles E. Pemberton, 71, musician and composer and head of the University of Southern California School of Music's composition department, died yesterday.

Menuhin May Lose $3000 Engagement Because He Will Not Pay $70 to Join Guild

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP)—Because he refuses to join a musicians' guild at a cost of $70, Yehudi Menuhin, American violin virtuoso, appeared likely today to lose a $3000 engagement with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra.

Declaring his "freedom as an artist" was at stake, the 21-year-old genius declined to join the American Guild of Musical Artists, a requisite before performing with the Philharmonic Nov. 3 and 4.

Menuhin insisted it was not a question of paying the membership fee or his attitude toward organized labor that prompted the rebellion, but that as a free lance artist, he could not see why he should be required to sign a paper saying he "authorizes AGMA to be my exclusive agent."

Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, executive vice president of the Philharmonic, seemed equally adamant in Los Angeles when notified of Menuhin's stand. "If he doesn't want to play, I'm sorry, but he either will or he won't. It is not a question of labor or of unions. It is a matter of $70 against $3000 we would have to pay him to play twice or about 30 minutes."

She said AGMA sought "decent, honest management" of Musical Artists, and for that reason she would not ask the guild to waive a contract with the orchestra to allow Menuhin to perform.

The question of waiving the orchestra's contract with AGMA to permit Menuhin's appearance, Mrs. Irish indicated, was up to the guild, headed by Lawrence Tibbett.

Vitamins

Vitamins have been a popular food for years, but no one knows exactly what they are. No one has ever seen a vitamin, or held it in his hand.

Vitamins are unseen chemical substances that occur in foods, not in themselves food, but which are essential to the processes of life.

One of Orange county's most unusual industries is the making of vitamin and mineral concentrates used to supplement the diets of the modern civilization. It's located on Balboa island, and head vita-man is Carl Rehnborg, who organized the California Vitamins, Inc., two years ago.

Rehnborg says the average diet is deficient in vitamins and other necessary factors because of the conditions under which we live. He says it is possible, but extremely difficult, under our present mode of life to arrange and maintain a diet which would contain adequate amounts of all the vitamins and minerals.

The wide-spread use of cooked, boiled, and fried foods, he says, makes it practically impossible to satisfy the vitamin requirements as a modern diet. Cooking, Rehnborg says, is the sure way to get rid of vitamins; so is aging, and general types of processing.

He claims to insure a perfect diet we would have to be sure of the mineral content of the soil in which a plant grew, or the conditions under which it grew—and we'd have to be on hand to eat it when it was harvested. (Primitive man was on hand, and he got his food in the natural state).

Large cities have grown up, however, and these inhabitants must be fed the year around on food that is given only during a few months. It must be stored and preserved, and this, he says, is responsible for the loss of many of the vitamin and mineral substances in the food.

Since all diets are deficient in various degrees and since it is little inconvenient to insure the perfect diet, Rehnborg claims vitamin and mineral concentrates as supplements to foods are essential to keep in perfect health.

Vitamins are not food—but they are essential to food. Rehnborg says vitamins are to food what a spark is to gasoline.

If you don't "feel like kicking the ceiling off every morning," Rehnborg claims, then maybe you need some vitamins that are missing in your diet. Although he's pushing it as a cure-all, Rehnborg points out that an adequate amount of vitamins will help "practically anything that isn't an infection."

Rehnborg points out that concentrates do not—cannot—constitute a diet of vitamins, because only a few vitamins (B, C and D) have been completely isolated. Besides the vitamins, there are minerals and unclassified factors such as auxins, chlorophyll and others.

As a fact, he explains, most people have thought of vitamins as a separate, tangible "something." Actually, he says, is the interrelation of vitamins with the other components that makes food.

The bulk forms of food, he says, consist of proteins, which are the structural materials of the cells and which we can see; carbohydrates, the fuel forms, which we burn as energy, and which we can see; fats, which we use in cell structure, which we store, convert when needed into fuel, and which we can see.

And, besides those, there are the minerals, which are used in bones and teeth and cell structures and which, except for ordinary salt, we cannot see; and the vitamins, "the spark" to the food which we cannot see.

Foods are chemical combinations, he declares. It is not vegetables, for example, which are our food, but the proteins, carbohydrates, fats, minerals, vitamins, and unclassified factors which they contain.

Rehnborg says his factory operates just like a "human stomach," with the products being reduced from natural substances. Just how he does it, of course, is his trade secret. He makes the concentrates from rice hulls, wheat hulls, wheat bran, yeast, citrus fruits, and many types of green materials, such as alfalfa.

Rehnborg has been doing experimental work with vitamins since 1921. He first became interested in vitamins that year while working in China, later became so intrigued he gave up his job.

Vitamins are really super-potent, in that they are effective in exceedingly minute quantities. One gram of Vitamin C, for example, would be enough to supply all the requirements of an adult for 50 days.

For all practical purposes, there are six vitamins, A, B, C, D, E and G, each essential to life.

GARDEN GROVE.—The proposal of the Chamber of Commerce to sponsor a WPA sidewalks and curbs project for this community was endorsed by a majority of the property owners attending the meeting called for Wednesday evening at the Washington school, for the purpose of explaining the proposition. A straw vote taken on the proposal showed only a few dissenting votes, however this is in no way binding on the property owners as it will be necessary to circulate petitions among them before any project can be started, and then only if a large majority desire the improvements, it was explained.

The part the WPA will take in the project was explained by Colonel E. H. Wilcox, head of the Southern California office of the WPA who he said will furnish all labor plus a considerable amount of the material, to be based on the amount of man labor used for the job.

County Surveyor W. K. Hillyard explained the two ways in which the property owners' part of the project may be financed, first by paying cash and secondly under a street improvement act, the last of which he said would probably raise the costs 25%. He roughly estimated the probable cost of the project to the property owner as 22 cents a running foot for curbs, 30 cents for a four foot sidewalk or 37 cents for a five-foot sidewalk. The exact cost he said could not be determined until the project had been more thoroughly worked out. Street grades and property lines he said would be established by the county without cost to the property owner, when and if there is sufficient demand for the project, which will be determined through the petitions.

CHINESE WILL FIGHT 'UNTIL VICTORY WON'

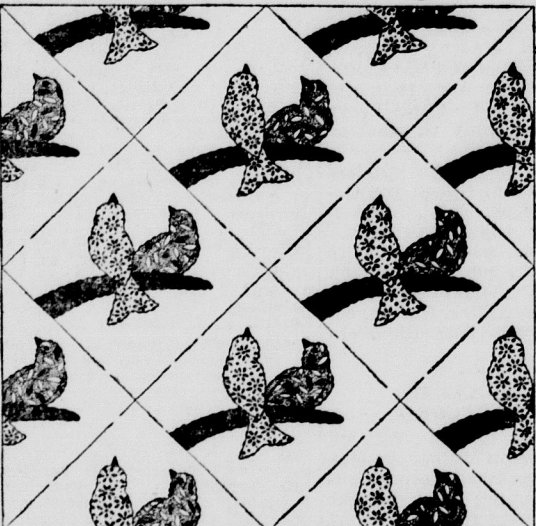

HONGKONG. (AP)—A Central News Agency (Chinese) dispatch from Chungking today said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had declared China would fight on and that "a decisive battle" between a united China and the Japanese armies would be fought west of the present area of Japanese conquest. The dispatch quoted a telegram sent by the Chinese leader—presumably from new headquarters somewhere west of fallen Hankow—to the people's central political council at Chungking, provisional capital.

General Chiang's telegram reaffirmed China's decision to continue resistance until ultimate victory is achieved. It discounted the loss of Canton and Hankow and said Japan's "desperate invasion of south China was prompted by realization of the danger of exhaustion of her strength."

Saints and Chaffey Battle to 6-6 Grid Deadlock Tackle Misses San Bernardino Clash

PIPER SCORES FOR LOCALS AT ONTARIO

Outclassed in their first two games, the Saints started with a 6-0 lead in the last three minutes of play of the fourth quarter, when Chaffey staged a 78-yard sustained drive to a touchdown.

Both touchdowns came in the final period.

WAYNE PIPER SCORES

Halfback Wayne Piper of Santa Ana plunged through left tackle from the 3-yard line for the Saints' touchdown, which started with only six minutes left in the game. Bobbie Musick's plunge was stopped through center in an attempt for the extra point.

Receiving a punt on their own 35-yard line, the Saints registered five first downs in a row, culminating with their touchdown. Piper made the initial first down on two plays. Fullback Musick dashed through center for 10 yards. He then reeled off four, followed by another four by Piper. Musick chalked up the third first down by carrying the ball to Chaffey's 20. Runs by Piper and Musick netted the fourth and fifth first downs, finally planting the ball on Chaffey's 7-yard line. Piper netted four yards off left tackle, and then plunged over the same position for Santa Ana's touchdown.

Not to be outdone, Chaffey came back with a sparkling attack. Receiving the kick-off on their own 22-yard line, the Tigers drove down the field to Santa Ana's 25 on a series of passes from Quarterback Bill Blatinick to Left Halfback Byron Hickox. Blatinick tossed a 23-yard pass to Hickox to mid-field. On third down, another pass from Blatinick to Hickox gave Chaffey a first down on Santa Ana's 27. After Hickox gained two yards on a line plunge, Blatinick tossed another one of his accurate passes to Hickox in the flat. Catching the ball on Santa Ana's 3-yard line, Hickox ran over for the score, carrying a couple of tacklers with him. Halfback Bill Hull of the Saints knocked down Hickox's pass for the attempted conversion.

REDLANDS NEXT HERE

The Saints displayed a fine spirit in a good performance, as did Piper and Musick. Bob Webb and Don Dunning also showed up well. The Saints battle Redlands in the Municipal bowl next Friday afternoon.

THUMB-NAIL SKETCH OF JAYSEE RIVALS TONIGHT

There will be war—football war—inside the Municipal bowl to-night, and when the smoke clears, Santa Ana and San Bernardino Jaysees probably will have staged one of the greatest battles ever seen in the Eastern conference.

Anticipating a sellout crowd, jaysee officials will throw open the gates of the Sixth and Flower street stadium at 6 o'clock, one hour and a half before game-time. Circus bleachers have been installed on the east side of the bowl, raising its seating capacity past the 9000 mark.

Here's a thumb-nail sketch of the San Bernardino team that will be seeking its fourth conference victory here:

Quarterback—Hal Finney, No. 42, an all-Southern California prep from El Monte. Sweet passer—shoots 'em fast and straight and far. Better than Bobby Templeton of last year as a passer. His other long suit is off-tackle runs, with cutback. Weighs 185 pounds.

Left half—Homer Doake, 185-pound guard who has developed into a blocking half; he's a bearcat on defense.

Right half—Paul Holmes, 190-pound freshman from El Monte High, where he played with the elusive Finney. Passes, kicks and runs with ball—also receives passes.

Fullback—Don Fisher, 170-pounder from San Bernardino High; runs the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds. Has plenty of drive and speed once in the open. He's the team's surest ground gainer from

FAVOR BRUINS OVER INDIANS AT COLISEUM

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Two Rose bowl hopefuls, the California Golden Bears and Southern California Trojans should remain undefeated in the Pacific coast conference for at least another week if their Oregon opponents don't spill the dope bucket tomorrow afternoon.

Defending conference champions and winners of the 1938 Rose bowl battle, the Bears entertain a heavier Oregon State team at Berkeley. The betting odds favor the Bears and their powerful running attack which last week swept aside the opposition of a strong and rejuvenated University of Washington team.

Last year's championship Bears mauled the Beavers, 24 to 6. The Trojans journey north to meet the University of Oregon at Portland. The Webfeet, badly battered by the clubbing they took from the Fordham Rams last Saturday at New York, are on the short end of the betting odds. A week ago the Trojans came from behind to lick the Stanford Indians just about as they pleased.

In 1937, Southern California lacerated the Oregonians, 34 to 14. In the only other conference clash, the remnants of what promised, at the first of the season, to be a strong Stanford football team, goes to Los Angeles for an exchange of punts and passes with the U. C. L. A. Bruins in the Coliseum tomorrow afternoon.

Last season the Bruins dropped a 13 to 7 decision to the Indians, but this year are the odds-on favorites—a fact which Coach Henry Thormill of Stanford said gave his badly-battered Indians a chance for victory. Injuries have plagued Stanford since its lacing at the hands of Santa Clara in the season's opener.

The University of Washington Huskies have a week of rest before moving into Palo Alto to wrestle in the main event at the Stanford 11 next Saturday. Washington State Cougars, who haven't felt the thrill of winning a ball game this season, are given a chance to get that feeling in a non-conference clash with independent Gonzaga at Spokane.

RABURN PINS JIM LOTT

Applying an alligator clutch and a Boston grab, Billy Raburn, 'The Georgia Peach,' pinned Jimmie Lott, one of the fans' favorite wrestlers, in the main event at the Orange County Athletic club last night.

Lott got off to a splendid start by winning the first fall in 15:37 with a standing scissors, but Raburn captured the next two in 15:44 and 7:35.

Pat. (Popeye) O'Brien pinned Paul Orth in the first fall with a rope kickoff and a body press in 6:22, but he lost the match to Orth, who took the next two falls with body slams in 9:58 and 9:38, respectively.

One of the roughest matches was staged by Yukon Jake and Charley Carr, who fought to a draw. Jake took the first fall in 21:18 with a hammerlock, but lost the second in 6:19 on a cradle roll. Juan Gonzales pinned Leo Terlinko, a newcomer, in 12:38 with a backward arm stretch in the preliminary.

SPORTS Roundup

By SID FEDER (Pinch-Hitting for Brietz)

NEW YORK. (AP)—Is it the McCoy that Dana Bible sewed up 99 players (or thereabouts) for future U. of Texas use by using 'em in the first Longhorn freshman game this fall? ... Seems there's a Southwest conference rule that if a frosh plays even one minute for one school down there, he can't be accepted by another school (according to the story) just wanted insurance. ... And it's a neat trick, even if he didn't do it. ... Tony Canzoneri wasn't any too fast in outpointing Howie Scott in Jersey City the other night. ... But insists that'll all be fixed with another half-dozen starts under his belt. Maurice Strickland, the New Zealand heavy, sails from London tomorrow to try for a crack at Joe Louis here.

Marquette overlooked a bet when it let Fern Miller, 230-pound tackle from Milwaukee, escape to Harvard. ... He's going great for the classy Crimson football officials taken to wearing striped jackets for self-preservation? ... Seems too many teams were turning up with white sweaters, and 'twas getting so bad the boys were taking body blocks and tackles out of the refs and ump.

So you can't teach an old dog new tricks, eh? ... Well, Pop Warner, the old power exponent, has a Temple team that completed 41 passes for 563 yards in its first five games. ... Last year, the Owls gained only 218 yards through the air in a full nine-game schedule.

As an old NYU Blue, this corner begs to report that Ohio State's attitude of treating Saturday's game as a breather in getting in the Violet's hair—and they may make a real battle of it. ... Taking the favorite (then nobody can say you tried to mastermind it) this corner strings along with Pitt, Dartmouth, California, Notre Dame, Southern California, Minnesota—and Ohio State (did someone holler treason?). ... Duke should nip North Carolina—but the Dukes'll be scored on for the first time. ... We like Ten-Ten-Tennessee again over L. S. U. ... And pick (but won't bet on it) Texas Christian to settle the Southwest fuss by belting Baylor for the underdog Arkansas to pass Texas A. & M. slightly dizzy?

Seek Santa Clara-Fordham Contest

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Superior Judge Thomas P. White announced today that negotiations are under way for a post-season football game between Santa Clara and Fordham universities, to be played in the Memorial Coliseum here Sunday, Jan. 1.

"I do not know what assurance we have that these two teams would be available, but you may say that the movement is definitely under way," the jurist declared.

FARNSWORTH ACES NO. 17 AT S. A. CLUB

F. E. Farnsworth today sported his second hole-in-one at the Santa Ana Country club.

While carding a sparkling 73 yesterday, Farnsworth ached the 154-yard, No. 17 hole in playing with C. P. Boyer, Jack Roberson, B. J. McMullen, H. A. Walker, J. W. Beach, Lee Ostrander, Roy Langley and the club pro, Roy Renwick.

Farnsworth's first hole-in-one was made back in 1931 on July 7, when he ached No. 6. At that time, 28 holes-in-one had been scored. Today there is the record total of 55 on the Country club books.

In nine-hole competition for women golfers yesterday, Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw was first with a score of 45-10-35. Runners-up were Mrs. Harry Baker, 42-4-38, and Mrs. C. H. Chapman, 47-8-39.

LEWIS DEFENDS TITLE TONIGHT

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—John Henry Lewis of Phoenix, Ariz., world's light-heavyweight champion, will put his coveted crown, which he has not defended for two years, on the block tonight in a 15-round against Al Gainer. New Haven's persistent contender.

As the hour for the twice-postponed battle—the first title bout in the light-heavy division between two negroes—drew near, betting circles made Lewis a 7 to 5 favorite to retain the championship he won three years ago from Bob Olm in St. Louis.

Lewis, announcing "I beat him once and can do it again," was given the slight edge because of the 12-round decision he won from Gainer in a non-title scrap in Pittsburgh in the summer of 1936.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Hans Steinkne, 236, Germany, drew with Danno O'Mahoney, 225, Ireland, (one fall each, curfew limit).

NEW YORK. — Karol Krauser, 200, Poland, pinned Dr. "Dropkick" Murphy, 201, Ireland, (1:09).

Ineligibility struck a blow at Santa Ana Jaysee's football hopes today, removing Ed Becker, regular left tackle. The San Diego giant was the only player removed from the squad by the faculty axe.

Defending co-champions of the Eastern Junior college conference, Santa Ana's Dons and San Bernardino's Indians will settle their differences inside the Municipal bowl at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The game, expected to lure a capacity crowd of more than 9000 fans, will have an important bearing on the conference football race.

The two clubs shared the title last fall after playing 6-6 and 7-7 deadlocks. At present, both are involved in a heated pennant scramble with Fullerton and Chaffey. Fullerton plays Citrus at Fullerton tonight. Chaffey goes to Pomona.

Doug Smythe's San Bernardino eleven featuring a brilliant passer in Quarterback Hal Finney, will come here unbeaten in conference play. The Indians crushed Citrus 29-0 and defeated Pomona and Riverside by 6-0 margins.

After opening with a 25-0 victory over Citrus, Santa Ana's Dons were held to a scoreless draw by Pomona last week, which means that Santa Ana must win tonight to remain in the thick of the title fight.

"I believe we are ready for our best effort of the season," Coach Bill Cook said today. He and his able assistant, John Ward, probably will start at Santa Ana backfield combination of Larry Monroy, quarter; Rollo Beck and Vic Lindskog, halves, and Art Heinisch, fullback, although Co-Capt. Larry Timken will be ready to start at their quarter or fullback. Santa Ana's probable starters in the line are Jim Nunez and Co-Capt. John Joseph, ends; Gil Nehrig and "Sky High" Cy Levernman, tackles; Dale Mickelwaite and Pete Kotlar, guards; and Jack Lentz, center. Mickelwaite will get the call over Dick Horton because Mickelwaite does the kicking off.

FULLERTON PROTECTS UNBLENISHED RECORD

FULLERTON.—Coach Wendell Pickens' Fullerton Junior college gridder's unblemished record will be on the chopping block tonight when the Hornets face Coach Al Claves' crafty Citrus Owls in the local stadium at 7:30 o'clock.

Tied for the Eastern division lead with Chaffey and San Bernardino, the Hornets will be favored to hold their position while the other two teams may drop from the top rung.

Coach Claves' main trouble is lack of reserves. Citrus has been able to stay in the thick of the game for the first half but usually crumbles in the final periods.

L. M. TURNER OPENS SECOND STORE TODAY

Luther M. Turner today opened his second store for the sale of nationally known home appliances in Santa Ana.

For 12 years he has operated at 221 West Fourth street. The No. 2 store is located at 1219 South Main street.

On Feb. 15, 1926, Mr. Turner purchased the business of the Kennedy Sales and Service Co. at 118 East Fourth street. Connected with him at that time were Nelson Edgar and Harold B. Smith. Mr. Edgar and Mr. Smith are still important members of the present day organization, Mr. Edgar being general manager of Turner's, Mr. Smith manager of store No. 2.

The first move was made necessary by the growth of the business. The Turner Radio Co. solved the problem by moving to its present main store location at 221 West Fourth street where it has operated since 1928.

Since its inception, the Turner Radio Co. has consistently been chosen as Santa Ana and Orange county representative for leading lines of radios, washing machines and other home appliances.

The constant growth of the business necessitated the opening of a branch store. This move on the part of Turner will enable him to give more complete and satisfactory service. The new store will offer unlimited parking space, out of the limited parking zone. Featured is the "drive-in" service offered for repair work, with a qualified technician to repair and install all makes of car radios.

Turner's No. 2 will have complete washing machine and refrigerator service departments under Joe Bergen, carrying a complete stock of parts for all makes washers, ironers and refrigerators.

Available at both stores will be the electric shaver service on all makes electric shavers. Probably of more interest to housewives is the fact that at both Turner's stores will be demonstrations every hour, every day of the Bendix Home Laundry.

Turner's is exclusive dealers for Philco, featuring the new Philco Mystery Control, and in addition has the full line of Arvin and Admiral radios.

In addition to the Bendix Home Laundry Turner's will have Apex, Kelvinator, Mola and Easy Washing machines, and is exclusive dealer for Easy washing machines and ironers.

Turner's is dealer for the Kelvinator electric refrigerator, Duo Therm oil heaters, Westinghouse and Hotpoint appliances, Toastmasters, Hamilton Beach and Mixmaster mixers, Shavemaster, Schick and Remington Rand electric razors, and carry a full and complete line of Westinghouse Mazda lamps.

Health, Housing of Farm Workers to Be Meet's Topic

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A conference will be held in Bakersfield tomorrow under auspices of the John Steinbeck committee to aid agricultural organization, for discussion of problems of health, housing and relief for agricultural workers.

A statement from the committee, headed by Novelist John Steinbeck, said the purpose will be to evolve a program to meet the needs of California's agricultural labor.

The conference also will consider issues in a strike of cotton pickers in Kern county, it announced.

THINGS GOT HOT

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Papers in the mayor's waste basket caught fire. Ira Pilcher, N.Y.A. director, who was in the office, raced for a glass of water but Fred Pyeat, the mayor's secretary, tossed the basket out the window before the blaze could spread.

Pat Crowe, Public Enemy of 40 Years Ago, Feared Near Death in New York Hospital

NEW YORK. (AP)—Pat Crowe, who survived a $50,000 "dead or alive" hunt to turn to a career of preaching that crime does not pay, was reported near death today.

Attendants at the Harlem hospital, where he was taken after a heart attack in a cheap Harlem rooming house yesterday, said his condition was serious. Crowe is 79 now. Until yesterday he still was erect and proud, and still remembered the days when he eluded months of nation-wide searching for him as kidnaper of Edward J. Cudahy, jr., son of the millionaire meat packer, in Nebraska late in the 90's.

He finally surrendered voluntarily in Butte, Mont., and although he admitted he and a confederate received ransom for the kidnapping, he was acquitted.

FIRE SWEEPS MARSEILLE

MARSEILLE. (AP)—A huge fire which swept 10 buildings in the heart of Marseille today and was believed to have caused three deaths led Premier Edouard Daladier to suspend until tomorrow the radical-socialist conference here.

The fire destroyed the big Nouvelles Galeries De Paris department store, the Noailles hotel—where Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet were staying—and spread to two other hotels, a bank and several other buildings.

Prize Offered for New J. C. Design

Students of Santa Ana Junior college today were being urged by the Associated Student executive board to submit new designs for a supplementary decalmania transfer for the jaycee.

A $3 prize is being offered for the design selected. Associated Student President Bill Twist said. The contest will be judged by Miss Frances Egge, head of the art department, and Carroll Richardson, editor of Del Ano.

The seal selected will only supplement the present familiar round red and black sticker, it was announced.

Czechs Give Grant To German Rails

BERLIN. (AP)—Germany and Czechoslovakia, it was disclosed today, have signed an agreement whereby Germany is granted a "railway corridor" across Czechoslovakia from Silesia to Austria without passport or customs control.

This will shorten the railway distance between Northeastern Germany and Southeastern Germany—which almost enclose dwindling Czechoslovakia—by 360 miles.

KIWANIANS TO SING TONIGHT

The Santa Ana Kiwanis club chorus is scheduled to sing tonight at the "governor's banquet" highlighting the 18th annual California-Nevada district convention of Kiwanis International.

The convention is being held at Santa Monica, and will close tomorrow after a four-day session. The chorus is directed by Whitford Hall.

Besides making appearances as a separate unit, the chorus was scheduled to participate in singing with a huge glee club of 300 male voices.

Ghosts Walk at Y. M. C. A. Party

Ghosts walked, witches worked their weird arts, spectres screamed, and small boys thrilled to unusual sights and sensations at the Y. M. C. A. last night when Boys' Secretary Herbert Thomas and his aides staged the annual Halloween party.

The "costume contest" resulted in first honors for Bob Cole, dressed to represent Mr. Mof; second to Jack Pickering, impersonating Mephistopheles; third to Tommy McFadden, dressed in Lincoln green to represent Robin Hood.

The committee of helpers working with Herbert Thomas included Fred Kibby, Perry Smith, Bill Winterbourne, Bob Winterbourne, Harold Woodsmall, Carl Kennedy, Robert Barton, Victor Lauderbach, Irvin Perry, Eddie Hughes and Mrs. Herbert Thomas.

Single Tax Would End Private Land Ownership, Asserts Walker

By SHARPLESS WALKER

When Henry George discussed the single tax at Longwood, Penna., the most disconcerting question asked him was by a farmer, in effect:

"Chester, Lancaster and Berks counties are the richest agricultural counties in the country (Los Angeles county, with its citrus fruit, later forging into first place), but the present value of their farm lands and improvements is no greater (it being a period of depression) than the actual cost of the improvements: houses, barns, silos, granaries, fences, orchards, shade trees, drainage, cultivation. So why should higher taxes be levied on farm land, in view of the fact that it seems to have no value, other than that given by the improvements?"

The question was really unanswerable, by reason of the extraordinary circumstances stated, and Mr. George's attempt to reply necessarily ended in an exhibition of bewildering generalities.

Under the theories of Henry George and other single tax advocates, the private ownership of land would be virtually abolished under the single tax system, and each occupant of land would pay a rental to the state, proportionate to the desirability and value of his holdings.

The independent, owner-operator farm family, rooted securely in the soil, is one of the country's cherished traditions. This nation was founded on industrious and thrifty land owning farmers. The evils of farm tenancy are that the tenant moves to another farm and to another locality every two or three years, and cannot be expected to care for the land or buildings as though they were his own.

He uses the soil only for an immediate return, with the result that he does not conserve the soil, or maintain its fertility, and erosion occurs.

In localities where tenants and share croppers predominate, the farm buildings get out of repair, and the soil deteriorates by reason of erosion and neglected fertility. Taxes become delinquent, and soon the public schools and public roads deteriorate.

Between 1920 and 1933, the percentage of tenants and share croppers in the United States increased from 18 per cent to 45 per cent, and in some southern states to as high as 70 per cent.

In March, 1930, net incomes totaling $1,185,000,000 were reported by 504 individuals for the preceding year. That sum was the equivalent of the gross cash incomes of the wheat and cotton farmers of the United States, for the entire wheat and cotton crops that year—representing a farm population of 13,500,000. The single tax would raise the taxes on the land of the wheat and cotton farmers suffering economic and financial privation, but would lower or abolish the taxes on the 504 super-millionaires.

The foreclosure of farm lands has been checked, former owners repurchasing farms, and the Burkhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act helps tenants and share croppers to become farm owners, and loans them money to buy their own land; each loan being accompanied by guidance in modern farming methods necessary to insure the purchaser a chance of permanent success.

After a long night of depression and distress, agriculture—embracing what is commonly called the great middle class in America—nearly threatened with extinction, now faces the dawn; and to levy upon the farms and fields at this period the insufferable burden of a single tax, would be pernicious and indefensible.

It was contended by Henry George that depressions and poverty existed because of land monopoly. His "Progress and Poverty" in the 1880's had a large sale in England and Ireland, where the land problem was a more vital

BALLOTS AND CARDS MAILED
TO 74,908

Sample ballots, precinct cards and explanatory pamphlets were on their way today to Orange county's 74,908 registered voters, who are expected to read them and find out what it's all about before Nov. 8.

Last of the sample ballots was delivered by County Clerk B. J. Smith to the postoffice yesterday; only distribution of the bulky packages remained.

Absentee ballots, for voters who will not be at home on election day, still are obtainable from Smith's office in the courthouse. They must be applied for by Nov. 3, and voted on or before election day, Nov. 8. Smith urged all who possibly can do so to call in person at his office and vote their ballots there, thus obviating the necessity of having the ballot notarized and the expense to the county of mailing the ballot and supplies out.

question, due to the fact that in England land was monopolized by the nobility and aristocracy, and in Ireland there was the curse of absentee landlordism.

That depressions in this country were not due to land monopoly is evident from the fact that in 1857, when there was a financial and industrial panic, one-half of all of the land in the United States was unsettled and unused; and there were vast virgin regions during the panics which commenced in 1873 and in 1893.

The theory that the single tax should be levied to prevent land monopoly, overlooks the facts: that land monopoly in this country does not now exist except in name; and that monopoly in industry, which would escape taxation, is a real menace.

For illustration: aluminum is virtually a monopoly. The Aluminum Company of America began with an investment of $600,000. In 25 years the surplus profits totaled $30,000,000. In 1927, 1928, and 1929, the net profits were $15,108,000, $20,672,000, and $25,318,000, respectively, or a profit for the three years exceeding 10,000 per cent. Under the single tax, in full effect, the aluminum industry and its profits would escape taxation.

City real estate, under the single tax, would be subjected to inequalities. The eighty-story Empire State building, with its large investment and high income, would pay no more taxes than an adjacent ten-story building on a similar site.

In towns and cities, by reason of the excessive tax on unimproved business sites, or on buildings with a very limited number of stories, the owner would be faced with the alternative of losing his property for excessive taxes, or building a higher and larger building, regardless of any urgent demand for it, with the possibility of a surplus of store quarters and offices, resulting in lower rents and loss of income on the investment, and of ability to pay taxes.

The great fortunes in America were not derived from city land, with a single notable exception—the Astors. For examples, among fortunes not the largest, Payne Whitney, Harry Whitney and Thomas F. Ryan left estates valued from $225,000,000 to $350,000,000. They were speculators and manipulators.

Thousands of high incomes, and high salaries of executives, film stars and of radio performers, etc., would entirely escape a single tax. Gary Cooper, who I first saw as a high school boy at Helena, Montana, when his father, Charles A. Cooper, was a member of the state supreme court, drawing $6000 per year, last year topped the film salaries with nearly $500,000. The salary of the judge would pay a tax on his home site, but the fabulous salary of the son would nearly all escape a single tax.

While the single tax, under No. 20 on the ballot, is in modified form and will go into effect gradually during a term of years, yet under modern economic and industrial conditions it is at variance with the cumulative tax experience and wisdom of the world.

NON-MEMBERS
RULED OUT BY DIRECTORS

Hopes of Orange county ranchers of obtaining water from the Metropolitan Water district after the Colorado river aqueduct is completed in 1939 or 1940 were dashed today.

The water problems committee of the MWD board of directors ruled emphatically today that water will not be sold or released under any terms to non-members. The Colorado river aqueduct water will be available only to cities and areas now or hereafter included within the legal boundaries of the Metropolitan Water district of Southern California, an official statement said. "This is the established policy of the district board of directors. It means that aqueduct water will not be sold or released under any terms to any area as long as such area is outside the boundaries of the district."

It has been previously rumored that the MWD was considering making water available to Orange county ranchers at the startling low price of $8 per acre foot. This would be selling water to areas outside the water district, Santa Ana, Anaheim, and Fullerton being the only members in this county.

"To clear up any uncertainty," the water problems committee of the district outlined the official condition governing future annexations.

"The ultimate capacity of the aqueduct permits the extension of the present district area within certain definite limits. All district areas are to be assured an adequate and dependable water supply, and the territory ultimately to be included within the district shall not be larger than that which permanently can be assured such an adequate supply."

In applications for annexation to the district, the committee said, "the district will give its favorable consideration only to areas of sufficient size and water requirements to justify an economically feasible delivery of aqueduct water. Preferably such areas should be so located as to control the entire production of water from local underground water basins affected."

Rate at which aqueduct water is to be sold to district areas has not been fixed by the board of directors, it was revealed. The board has given favorable consideration to the possibility of selling water on a base rate as low as $8 per acre foot, provided there is increased water use sufficient to justify that price.

It was revealed the board has given its favorable consideration to a policy under which areas

If You Want Buffalo or Elk
For Pet, Uncle Sam Will Give You One Without Charge

Who wants a buffalo? Or an elk? They're free.

The government said so—and if you happen to be able to support one in the style to which it is accustomed, there's a good chance you can get one of the ponderous beasts from Uncle Sam, who has too many.

The buffalo, it seems, is so far from being an extinct beast that two of the national park service's range also will be accommodated.

In Wind Cave National park, South Dakota, there are 300 bison and 150 elk grazing all year on what essentially is a summer range. The buffalo herd can't roam at will to find winter grazing, and it must be reduced by 124 head. One hundred elk will have to go, too, because there is not enough natural forage around.

Up to 80 head of bison must be removed from Yellowstone National park's herd of 900, too.

So the government offered the surplus today to individuals, wild life refugees, Indian reservations, zoos, and others able to give proper assurance of their ability to care for these animals and keep them under fence.

They will be given away, the Park service announced, but the recipient must pay the cost of live trapping, crating and shipping. Preference will be given to requests from those desiring to restock existing herds and to public institutions such as zoos and Indian reservations. Ranchers able to guarantee a properly-fenced range also will be accommodated.

So if you want one—write the superintendents of Wind Cave National park, Hot Springs, S. D., and Yellowstone National park, Yellowstone Park, Wyo.

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Facing a sentence of from five years to life, Mrs. Dorothy Donegan, convicted of second degree murder, will appear before Superior Judge Frank M. Smith today.

A jury, which previously convicted the woman, last night found Mrs. Donegan was sane when she shot and killed her estranged husband, William, last June 30.

Mrs. Donegan had told the jury her mind went blank immediately preceding the shooting.

hereafter annexing to the district will be permitted to pay accumulated back taxes over a 20-year period with no interest charge during the period of amortization.

Members of the water problems committee included S. H. Finley of Santa Ana, Franklin Thomas of Pasadena, John H. Ramblow of San Marino, and John R. Richards, V. H. Rossetti and W. R. Whitsett of Los Angeles.

OIL GEOLOGIST
FILED SUIT ON DRILLING DEAL

Claiming he was "squeezed out" of an oil drilling deal near Huntington Beach, Franklin C. Grimes, Fullerton petroleum geologist, today filed suit in superior court against the All States Oil company, J. E. O'Donnell, William G. Bradford and Claud A. Graham.

Grimes claims he entered into an agreement last Sept. 15 with Bradford and Graham, providing that they would share as partners in oil production from a 180-acre tract known as Farnsworth Farms on Huntington Beach boulevard.

Pursuant to the agreement, he says he paid $1500 to O'Donnell as a bonus for the lease. Bradford and Graham, he says, each were supposed to put up $2500 for beginning of drilling operations by the All States firm.

O'Donnell, however, got the lease from F. E. Farnsworth of Santa Ana and had himself named lessee, without payment of the $1500 to Farnsworth, the complaint alleges. Later, Grimes says, Bradford and Graham tried to get him to put up the $5000 they were supposed to contribute, and when he refused they assertedly forced him to resign as a director of the corporation. He also alleges O'Donnell reserved to himself an overriding interest in the lease.

He asks the court to decree that the defendants hold the lease in trust for him, because he put up the money, and that an accounting is due.

Another Lovely Party Is Given By Mrs. Borgmeyer

An enjoyable climax to the busy month of October was the charming luncheon party at which Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer received half a hundred guests yesterday afternoon at the Santa Ana Country club, for in keeping with the brilliant colors demanded by the holiday of the week, the hostess carried out a striking Halloween motif.

BOARD ENJOYS HALLOWE'EN LUNCHEON

The executive board of the Woman's society of the First Baptist church met for a luncheon and business meeting at the home of Mrs. Jessie White, 2472 Riverside drive. Mrs. E. A. Bell and Mrs. W. B. Lockett were co-hostesses for the luncheon. A jack-o-lantern greeted the guests from the porch, while bouquets of roses decorated the rooms of the house. Tuberculosis seals were folded during the meeting.

Mrs. R. C. Crouse, president, was in charge of the business meeting following the luncheon. Mrs. A. F. Hill opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. H. E. Owens offered special prayer for the health of the daughter of one of the members. Mrs. J. T. Vernon was nominated to fill the unexpired term of second vice president, left vacant by the death of Mrs. E. L. Morris, whose passing has meant such a loss to the Woman's society.

Mrs. W. A. Atkinson, president of the Santa Ana Valley Woman's society, announced the annual meeting of the Santa Ana Valley association at Downey, Nov. 17 and 18, with the woman's social supper occurring Thursday, Nov. 17 at 6:30 p. m. Many missionary speakers are to be featured in the two days' gathering, among them Miss Viola Hill, with news from China, and a special speaker of note, the Rev. P. A. MacDiarmid, missionary secretary from the Belgian Congo.

Plans for the regular meeting of the local society, Nov. 2, were announced, with Mrs. Dwight Smith, a missionary from Burma, as the speaker. The Fahlo class, headed by Mrs. William Dennis, is in charge of arrangements for the day.

TO MAKE HOME IN PERU FOLLOWING RITES

Because they plan to sail Sunday for their new home in South America, the wedding of Miss Lois Franke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Franke of 202 South Birch street, and Frank C. Graham took place in Reno, Nevada Tuesday with the Rev. F. Carl Schmidt officiating at the rites read in the First Methodist Episcopal church of that city.

Accompanied by friends from Berkeley, the bride wore a tailored suit. On their return to Oakland, the couple were honored with a dinner given by the groom's sister.

The new Mrs. Graham is a graduate of Santa Ana schools, and was affiliated with Las Meninas while attending Junior college. She later completed her course at the University of California, where her husband also attended school.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham leave Sunday aboard a Pan-American steamer for Lima, Peru, where he will coach the water-sports teams for the next Olympics. They will stop en route at Panama and other points.

MOVE TO ISLAND
Mr. and Mrs. George D. Thomas moved last week from 1721 Spurgeon street to 112½ Marine street, Balboa Island.

Pierians Win Recognition

Pierian club members were hostesses yesterday afternoon for a dessert course preceding their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Margaret K. Church, 606 South Main street. Mrs. Roy Ivins assisted Mrs. Church who had used chrysanthemums in their softer colors in decorations.

Begonia slips from her collection were placed attractively on the side of each guest's plate, and the dining table was made especially lovely with its two bowls of cut glass filled with roses. Mrs. Earl Ladd presented a bouquet to the hostess from her garden.

Mrs. J. D. Watkins presided at the meeting, the topic chosen as "Tasks" and the forum discussion, "The Dickson Nocturne." Mrs. George W. Bond led the discussion, with Mrs. Watkins reading a paper on "My Mexican Trip," and Mrs. Church reading a poem, "Heavenly Day." "I Marked," and "For Dad" were contributed by Mrs. Ladd, with "Joy at My Work" by Mrs. George Bond, "Frost in the Air Tonight" by Mrs. C. L. Tackler and "Shining" was read by Mrs. H. W. Guthrie.

Mrs. E. G. Warner read a series of three poems, "Life's Tasks," "Man's Task" and "Greatest Need." "No Task at All" was read by Mrs. T. P. McKee.

Mrs. Bond announced that she had received a gift in the form of a book of poems from an eastern author in recognition of a poem of hers recently published in "Facts," local publication.

Mrs. Tackler received recognition of a song, words and music composed by herself, for it is to be included in a group compiled by an Orange county music teacher.

Next meeting of the group is to be with Mrs. Tackler at her home, 202 Southwest street, Anaheim. "Contrasts," with the forum topic the same as this month.

MRS. VERNON ENTERTAINS AT PARTY

Mrs. John J. Vernon was a charming hostess last evening when she entertained a group of misses whom she taught in Sunday school until their graduation from high school last spring. At that time she was unable to entertain the girls, so planned a Halloween event last night to make up for it.

When guests arrived they were ushered into the bedroom where they found a ghost tucked away in the bed. Their surprise was great when later Mrs. Ghost awakened and proved to be a most entertaining fortune-teller. Witches, cats, and pumpkins were everywhere in the home, and guests were masked.

Before a delicious refreshment course, each girl signed the pretty guest book they had brought Mrs. Vernon. The latter had centered her table with a little Colonial lady surrounded by green leaves and orange and white tapers. Perfume atomizers were favors at each place.

Mrs. Charles Rumell and Mrs. Paul Anderson assisted Mrs. Vernon during the affair, at which guests invited were the Misses Leona Roberts, F. C. Rowland, W. D. Ranney, Grace Rolshoven, L. G. Swales, George Sattler, F. W. Slabaugh, Herman Stearns, G. S. Smith, H. L. Stone, Howard Timmerman.

TUSTIN HOME IS PARTY SCENE
Mrs. James McCalla hosted her club yesterday in her Tustin home for an afternoon of bridge.

She had arranged her decorations in the Halloween colors of black and orange and the many flowers in the home were bright yellow with touches of the orange shades.

Mrs. Harold Carson scored high in bridge, and concluding her pleasant afternoon refreshments were served at the individual card tables, carrying out the season's motif further. Present were the Mesdames Roscoe Conklin, Don Park, John Lacy Taylor, James Workman, Aubrey Glines, Thoburn White, Newell Moore, Chester Horton, Edward Lee Russell, John Ebersole, Robert Goetting, Mrs. Carson and the hostess.

ENGLISH GROUP HAS DINNER
Seventy-five members of the Southern California Association of "hers of English were in attendance at Daniger's tea room last evening for a dinner at which Dr. Charles Frederick Lindley of Occidental College was the guest speaker.

Using "Social Ideals in Modern Poetry" as his theme, Dr. Lindley illustrated his talk with readings. Later, Mrs. Horace Scott, regional director of the local group presided at a business session, and Mrs. Eleanor Casady, secretary, took the membership. Mrs. Rose Mary Bennett announced a series of study lessons to begin January and lasting through February, conducted in the Fullerton Union High school.

Mrs. Grace Wolff, of the Lathrop Junior high school was in charge of the dinner arrangements. There is to be a general meeting of all Southern California groups in Los Angeles Saturday at the junior college of the city.

About 60 members and guests of Mary Martha class of Calvary church enjoyed a gay Halloween masquerade party one night this week at the Dearford-Thomas barn.

A pumpkin weight-guessing contest launched the affair, with Lena McGuigan winning the prize. Other games were much enjoyed later, with prizes going to Betty Wood, Jim Peterson and Inez Corneil.

Since tomorrow is the birthday anniversary of Miss Irene Hunter, class teacher, she was presented with a handsome handbag by the group.

Concluding the party Halloween refreshments were served by the host committee, which included Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Burrow, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blandin, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dufel, Mr. and Mrs. Don Kyle and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Osborne.

VISITOR AT SLABAUGH HOME ENTERTAINED

Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, 407 West Santa Clara street, have had as house guests for several days the latter's cousin, Mrs. Herma Stearns of Los Angeles.

On Wednesday Mrs. Slabaugh honored her cousin with a charming little luncheon, centering her table with fall fruits and foliage.

Music occupied the afternoon, with the hostess singing to her usual delightful way, and with enjoyable piano selections played by Mrs. M. E. Le Sourd, one of the guests.

With Mrs. Slabaugh and Mrs. Stearns were Mrs. Le Sourd, Mrs. Nellie Seitz, Mrs. Katherine Toms and Mrs. J. E. Paul.

On Thursday Mrs. Slabaugh and her guest attended Mrs. Marguerite Borgmeyer's luncheon at the Santa Ana Country club, and Mrs. Stearns was to leave today to spend a week-end in San Diego with friends. Mrs. Slabaugh plans to attend a luncheon in Westwood tomorrow, given by a former Omaha friend.

Mrs. Rowland, as first vice-president of the county federation, was a prominent figure during the day's program, presenting in the morning Mrs. Franklin Pierce Wray of Davis, state chairman of legislation, who gave a most interesting summary of pending legislation on the November ballot.

Mrs. R. G. Miller of Huntington Beach, president, introduced as an honored guest Mrs. David A. Frazier of San Diego, district federation president, who outlined plans for a pageant of bells at the Coronado district meeting Nov. 16, 17 and 18.

Impressive during the affair was a memorial service held for Mrs. F. A. Martin, member of the Santa Ana Woman's club, and a prominent federation worker, whose death was a shocking event of the week. Mrs. Walter Ross, county chairman of music, sang two lovely songs, "My Task" and "Beside the Still Waters He Leadeth Me" in memoriam.

Outstanding event of the afternoon was an address by Dr. Carl Knopf, whose topic was "The Master-Mind in a Muddled World." During the business session, the constitution and by-laws were reviewed.

PARK PARTY IS BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Donald Anderson's 12th birthday anniversary was celebrated yesterday when his mother, Mrs. Paul Anderson, 1219 South Ross street, assembled a group of his young friends and took them to Santiago park for a happy afternoon of football and other games.

Late in the day the boys were seated at a table gay with an orange cloth, Halloween symbols, and a decorated birthday cake and ice-cream.

In the group with Donald were Teddy Schultz, Buddy Schultz, Osborn Holmes, Jr., Harold and Walter Sorenson, and Ned Munselle. Ned and Sonny Sorenson were prize winners, and Mrs. Charles Rumell assisted Mrs. Anderson.

SHOWER FETES BRIDE-ELECT

Among the first to compliment Miss Ruth Mary Reichstein, who recently announced her approaching marriage to Walter Sorenson, was Mrs. Elbert Baumann of 627 North Birch street, when she hosted a miscellaneous shower for the bride-elect.

Miss Reichstein, who chose December 1 as her wedding date, found many gifts on a table under a white canopy, other appointments being white chrysanthemums and white tapers.

During a series of bridal games the honoree was awarded a prize for high score. Refreshments were served, completing the affair.

Attending were Arlene Sorenson, Gladys London, Nadine Wedel, Dorothy White, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. A. H. Bauman, Mrs. Dallas Reichstein, Mrs. F. A. Reichstein, Mrs. S. F. Sorenson, and the hostess, Mrs. Baumann.

EIGHTSOME ENJOYS NOVEL PARTY THEME

Mrs. Henry Walters gave a most unusual and delightful luncheon one day this week for a small group of friends at her home at 1605 East First street.

At noon the guests were seated at a table centered by a crystal bowl from which trailed orange-toned begonia. Place-cards were made of tiny shells brought by the hostess from a Florida beach, and small bouquets were attached. Scorecards and tallies were souvenir photos of a famous Florida scene.

Mrs. Guy Gardner, sister of the hostess, substituted for Mrs. Edith Snow, and contract resulted in her winning first prize, with Mrs. Etta Sweet, second. Present were Mrs. H. C. Carnahan, Mrs. J. E. Prentice, Mrs. Nell Winslow, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, and the hostess.

REPORT SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Strengthened federal indices for employment and industrial production nudged upward today the prosperity indicators of two government agencies.

Secretary Perkins said September figures showed re-employment of 640,000 workers in non-agricultural occupations since June. About 440,000 returned to work since the labor department's August survey.

The federal reserve board announced that its index of industrial production had risen from 76 in May to 90 in September, including a gain of two points over the August figure.

The index is based on 1923-25 as 100, and last night's report put it at the highest point since October, 1937.

The labor department's index of factory employment, using the average of 1923-25 as 100, rose from 85.7 in August to 88.9 in September. The factory payroll index, based on the same period, climbed from 76.8 in August to 80.7 in September.

Miss Perkins said the labor department's employment figure did not take into account casual workers, including approximately 120,000 cannery workers not regarded as part of the normal labor supply.

Boy, 11, Accused Of Killing Girl

NEWPORT, Tenn. (AP)—An 11-year-old mountain boy faced a charge of murder today for the shotgun slaying of a 9-year-old girl schoolmate in the Grassy Fork section of the Great Smoky mountains.

Sheriff C. D. Fisher said the youngster, Charles Greene, was arrested after Joyce Arrington was shot to death near her mountain home last Monday.

Everything Is Upside Down For Chicago Boy; Training Of Muscle May Cure Him

CHICAGO. (AP)—Everything that moves seems upside down to 8-year-old Richard Kenealy.

The discovery by his parents and teachers that Richard's world is topsy-turvy made him an object of scientific curiosity today.

The boy, a second grade pupil, reads upside down and backward. A moving automobile, he said, seems as though its wheels are in the air but when it stops it is instantaneously back to normal.

On the playground Richard's friends appear to be running upside down, and a ball thrown overhead appears to be delivered with an understanding sweep.

Dr. S. J. Krump, a public school optometrist, said the case was unique in his 19 years of practice. He expressed the belief that careful and patient muscular training would make Richard's vision normal.

The red haired youngster was described as normal except for his vision.

Dentists Oppose Compulsory Health Insurance Plan

ST. LOUIS. (AP)—The American Dental association was aligned today with organized medicine in opposing the major principles while opposing several specific phases of the proposed $850,000, 000 a year federal public health program.

The dental group's house of delegates took a firm stand against compulsory health insurance, recommended last July by President Roosevelt's interdepartmental committee on health and welfare. In its professional control.

Woman Slain; Body Of Husband Found Outside Of House

SELMER, Tenn. (AP)—Mrs. Gladys Stevens Gaddy, 28, was shot to death and her mother, Mrs. Arthur Stevens, was seriously wounded by a shot-gun blast fired through a window.

Several hours after the shooting, the body of Paul Gaddy, 32, McNairy county farmer and estranged husband of Mrs. Gaddy was found 50 yards from the Stevens residence.

Sheriff T. N. Wright said Gaddy had taken off his shoe to pull the trigger of his shot-gun with his toe and kill himself.

State Strives To End Secret Cuts In Gasoline Price

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—Attorney General U. S. Webb today directed the department of agriculture to enforce the state law prohibiting the sale of gasoline at prices lower than those posted on pump and dispensing apparatus.

In an opinion prepared for A. A. Brock, director of the department of agriculture at Sacramento, Webb declared the law aimed at "the prevention of indiscriminate and secret slashing of prices."

Other speakers and their subjects included John Colwell, "Learning;" Dr. C. J. Riley, "How the Worm Can Turn;" Don Jordan, "Let's Quit Kidding Ourselves;" Ben Schlegel, "The Cruise of Bon Homme Richard;" General Critic Dr. Cassius Paul was assisted by Dr. H. M. BLIND VOYAGE

Theodore (Teddy) Raynor, her Aunt Elsie and Hugo Albright sign up for a cruise on the motor yacht, the Golden Gull, though they are warned by Denis Graham, another prospective passenger, that there is danger. He tries to make Teddy miss the boat, but a mysterious stranger rescues her. The latter proves to be Roy Parrin, ex-scribbler, another cruise passenger. Others aboard are Dr. Smitting, who is in charge; the beautiful Charis Winslow, a friend of Graham's; Cecil Stoddard, wealthy playboy; Mrs. Stoddard and her maid, Kelsey; Mrs. Marvis, authoress; John Carper, millionaire, and Professor Turner. The stewardess, after trying to sell secret information to Teddy, is murdered. The next night, the engines are disabled and the following morning, word is received that Parrin has been injured.

CHAPTER XXVI

IT WAS not until half an hour later that Teddy and Charis learned the details of what had happened to Roy Parrin. They were having breakfast, when Hugo and Denis, returning from Parrin's cabin, rejoined them.

"What a morning!" Hugo groaned, sinking into a chair beside Teddy. "Give us some coffee quick!"

"Tell us about Parrin," Teddy said impatiently, as Charis poured the coffee.

"Bad knock on the head," Denis reported. "Smitting had to take a couple of stitches, but the fellow's not seriously hurt."

"How and when did it happen?"

"Early this morning—before dawn," Hugo said, between mouthfuls of toast. "Or so he says. His story is that he couldn't sleep and started for the deck to have a smoke. On his way, in the corridor, somebody gave him a wallop on the back of the head. It happened so quickly, he didn't see who it was. When he came to, he found himself on the floor of the linen closet. He staggered back to his cabin, and that's when his wife sent for Smitting."

"Personally," Denis remarked, "I think he was knocked out by the same person who was messing with the engines. Parrin may have been snooping—not just going out for a smoke."

"Then that sort of removes him from suspicion, doesn't it?" said Teddy.

"Not necessarily," Hugo pointed out. "His wound could have been self-inflicted. It wouldn't be the first time that kind of dodge has been used."

"That's possible," Denis murmured, "but I'd be surprised to find that Parrin is the chief villain in this piece. I think he lacks the imagination. However, I agree that he'll bear watching, and I propose to ask him some more questions after breakfast—without Smitting as a witness!"

"Okay," said Hugo. "I'll go with you."

"Let Charis and me come, too," Teddy pleaded. "We want to be in on this."

Denis laughed. "Come along, if you like."

Hence, after breakfast, they all went down to Parrin's cabin. His wife looked frightened as she let them in. Parrin himself, however, only scowled and asked what they wanted this time. He was sitting up in bed, with his head bandaged.

"If you don't mind," Denis said pleasantly, "we'd like to ask you a few more questions. Mr. Albright and I are very anxious to try to get to the bottom of the things that have been happening on this boat—particularly since the captain and Dr. Smitting seem to have a do-nothing policy."

"I've already told you all I know," Parrin said sullenly.

"Yes?" Denis looked at him steadily. "Sure about that? Why, for instance, were you so conveniently on hand to help Miss Raynor out of her difficulties on the evening we sailed?"

Parrin, unprepared for this line of attack, was momentarily disconcerted.

"Wasn't me," he grunted. Then, he suddenly changed his mind. "Oh, all right—I'll tell you. Why not? Smitting told me to shadow her that day, and make sure she got on board safely."

"Why should Smitting ask you to do that?"

"How should I know? He paid me for it, and I asked no questions."

AND did he also pay you to have your wife make friends with Miss Raynor?" Hugo asked sarcastically.

Parrin shot a look at his wife that made Teddy feel sorry for the woman.

"No," he growled. "That was my own business. It never does any harm to be friendly with these rich girls."

Denis raised his eyebrows. "But to get back to the attack on you last night—or rather, early this morning. You say you started out to have a smoke. Why didn't you smoke in your cabin? Or didn't you want to disturb your wife?"

"Say, listen!" Parrin said irritably. "You're not the only one who knows something queer's going on! If I want to take a look around at night, that's my business!"

"So you admit you were taking a look around? You didn't do any 'looking' in the engine room by chance?"

"If you think you can pin that on me, you're a fool!"

"Pin what on you, Parrin?" Denis asked smoothly. He smiled. "I didn't realize you were what actually happened down there. The captain said he was going to report it merely as a slight breakdown."

Parrin knew he had made a slip, and cursed softly.

"All right," he admitted. "I went down to the engine room to find out why the engines had stopped. I got there after the wreck—and that's the truth! I was on my way back here when somebody slugged me."

That was his final story, and they couldn't shake him in it.

AND where does that lead us?" Hugo grunted, when they had left the cabin.

"Up a blind alley, it would seem," Denis sighed. "And yet, I don't know. I'm beginning to change my mind about Parrin. I believe he's a slicker customer than I thought. Hello, here comes Kelsey."

"I've been waiting for you," the maid said, a curious expression on her face. "How's Mr. Parrin?"

"Doing all right," Denis told her.

"Does he know who attacked him?" she asked eagerly.

"Apparently not," Denis looked at her keenly. "Why? Do you?"

"Yes, I do!" She sounded almost venomous.

"And who was it, Kelsey?"

"Mr. Stoddard," the maid whispered. "It was Mr. Stoddard who attacked him!"

ADDIS ABABA'S FAIL TOPIC OF CLUB ADDRESS

Experiences during five days of rioting after Haile Selassie left Addis Ababa were told to Lions club members yesterday afternoon by Dr. George Bergman of Fullerton, then physician in a mission hospital at the Ethiopian capital.

The emperor, Dr. Bergman said, left instruction when he fled the country that his new $1,000,000 palace was to be looted by his own people so that it would not fall into Italian hands.

The habit caught on, the speaker continued, until large bands of Ethiopians were roaming the streets, firing guns into the air and at each other, looting legations and hospitals. He said experts had estimated that between 450 and 500 shots a minute were being fired.

He said Italy's feat in conquering Ethiopia in such a short period of time was "remarkable" because of the rough country. Ethiopians were handicapped, he said, by poor equipment, lack of food supplies and artillery, and jealousy of tribal chieftains.

Italy's conquest was not necessary, he said, and although Italians deny it he said he had seen poison gas used profusely. Dr. R. C. Harris was program chairman.

MINERS SEEK NEW SYSTEM OF TAXATION

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A national system of taxation which will yield a "maximum revenue over a period of years" but which will encourage and "not discourage, deter or destroy business initiative," was urged by the American mining congress, western division, today.

Other resolutions adopted at yesterday's closing session asked return to congress of control of national expenditures and re-establishment of the flat-rate tax upon corporate income, with repeal of the capital stock tax.

The congress urged "proper amendments" to the national labor relations act, without specifying them, favored return of control of the nation's monetary system to congress, with the use of both gold and silver in the system, and deplored "governmental prohibition of the development of valuable mineral areas in the national game preserves."

If pledged cooperation in furnishing "an adequate supply of strategic and critical war materials" in the national defense plans and urged congress to make possible a search and discovery program for minerals in which the United States is deficient.

84 Strikers Held In Kern Co. Jail

BAKERSFIELD. (AP)—With bail fixed at $2500 each, 84 striking cotton pickers and sympathizers were held in jail today awaiting preliminary hearing Nov. 10 on charges of rioting.

Marvin Hayes, foreman of the Jewett ranch, where officers charged the strikers attempted to drive pickers from the fields, signed the complaints.

MUSIC WORTHWHILE?

Continuing to be thrilled with the pleasantries of the two concerts here last week, I go on to ask—

"Why concerts in Santa Ana?" and reply—

Radio and records can only go so far, because the people get a minimized experience or return a minimized audience reaction.

Being "out front" at a concert, and your presence there, is an important part of the passing of the audible art from direction (score) to performer to audience and return.

A composer is much more alert to the things that happen in his music when he has sensed the presence of the audience.

We in Santa Ana and Orange county, although we are a part of a great metropolitan area, are this year fortunate in having musical events of importance brought to our very doors.

I think everyone realizes the stellar magnitude of the concert course series, but I can see not all are attuned to the importance of the Federal orchestra's place in the cultural development of this area.

A contemporary told me he was going to hear a symphony orchestra for the first time last Thursday night. I wondered then, for how many in that audience was it also a "first" concert?

He had listened for several years to the New York Philharmonic, the Ford and General Motors concert as well as Toscanini, but Thursday night was the first time he had had a seat "out front" from which he might connect strange instruments to familiar sounds.

Being there is what counts! You, and you alone, are the loser if you do not get to the Federal Symphony concerts.

Santa Ana is, I again say, fortunate in having as well trained, as large, as progressive an orchestra as this group has indicated itself to be. It is up to the rest of us to align ourselves and move forward, culturally, with the orchestra.

SEYMOUR PAUL RETURNS

Seymour Paul, who has been in the Hawaiian islands for the past several months, has returned with an interesting portfolio of sketches and paintings on which we (he and I) are not entirely agreed as to importance.

The sketches are the luminous, well-drawn impressions of a traveler. Decorative, and stylized (as is most of this Paul's work) they are good to look upon.

The controversial point, on which Seymour Paul and I hang is—can a true abstraction be three dimensional?

In saying "no," and holding for the flatness of a two dimensional pattern, Paul has the support of L'Hote, the eminent French painter.

In asking for depth, dynamic, and rhythm, I need only point to the work of three women, Ruth Peabody, Elise Armitage and Marion Cunningham, whose abstractions have all been seen here at the library within the past year.

Abstractions gain, I claim, from their projection into space.

Which of us is right?

S. CLAU

Your best friend won't tell you, but—

Christmas is getting dangerous!

Another manifestation of the metropolitan aura in which we now move is William Fritcher's presentation of the American Artists' group Christmas cards for the first time in Santa Ana.

For those who tire of the gaudy tinsel and noise of most cards, the soft, glowing color of this entire series is a pleasant retreat.

Many of them will also have a personal association for Santa Ana, for the work of Barse Miller, Brad Buff, Paul Landacre, and Millard Sheets, who are represented with one or more cards in the group, has been, or will be, seen in the Library exhibitions.

The original for the Miller card is the nucleus of Miss Betty Shoup's collection at her Three Arch bay home.

In securing these cards you not only achieve a retreat from the commonplace for yourself, but may regard yourself as a patron of the arts, since the artists profit from them only on a royalty basis.

EXTORTIONIST SUSPECT HELD

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Accused of demanding $5000 from John Foster, 71, wealthy oil man, under threats against his grandchildren, Paul Dreback, 63, unemployed janitor, was held on an extortion charge here today.

Capt. Walter Lentz, head of the local detective bureau, said Dreback was arrested last night as he called for a dummy package at the door of Foster's apartment. A string had been attached to the package, leading into the house.

He tugged at the string, and his arrest by police and federal agents followed, Lentz said.

The officer declared Dreback had signed a confession, and said he would be turned over to federal authorities.

Impersonating of Officer Charged

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Charged with impersonating a federal officer in Philadelphia last June, Adolph Morganstern, 45, was held in jail in default of $5000 bail today, awaiting his preliminary hearing Nov. 10.

Morganstern claimed at his arraignment yesterday he was married to Edna Cohen at the time federal officials accused him of having obtained $140, two suits of clothing and other wearing apparel from her in Philadelphia, posing as a special lawyer for the federal treasury department.

FORMER KAISER PLAYS HOST TO SCIENTISTS

DOORN, The Netherlands. (AP)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, himself learned in their field, today was host and chairman at a meeting of archaeologists in this little city of exile.

Annually for the past 14 years Wilhelm has invited leading German, Netherlands, Austrian, Hungarian and other archaeologists to Doorn for these discussions. It is called the annual meeting of the Noormer Arbeitsgemeinschaft or cooperation committee of savants.

The former Kaiser always presents one paper himself, the results of his own researches between meetings. This year he spoke on "The Origin and Use of the Baldachin," an ecclesiastical canopy. His paper was not made public, but it usually appears a year later in book form, richly illustrated.

It is his custom to look for a new topic each year. Last year he discussed the origins of Monotheism, and the year before the Gorgons, the three sisters of Greek mythology.

RETAIL TRADE OF U. S. RULED BY WEATHER

NEW YORK. (AP)—Both wholesale and retail trade joined in the country's fall to sober up, during the past week, said Dun & Bradstreet today in their weekly business review.

"Moving inversely to temperature changes," asserted the survey, retail sales totals made sharp gain in sections where thermometers dropped to normal seasonal levels.

"With the broadening in consumer demand the inadequacy of stocks in some departments was again emphasized.

"Most of the leading centers of distribution were ahead of their totals for the previous week, but only a few were able to show a margin over the preceding year.

"The week's gain of 3 to 5 per cent for the country as a whole left the average decrease under the corresponding period of 1937 virtually unchanged at 4 to 15 per cent."

15 DAY TERM IN JAIL ASKED

Cleveland C. Wafford, 606 Lacy street, who wanted 15 days in the county jail to sober up, had his wish granted today. He was sentenced to a 15-day term by City Judge J. G. Mitchell on a drunk charge.

Wafford called police officers to his residence yesterday, told them to run away from Patton state hospital 10 days ago, and had been drunk ever since. "I want 15 days to sober up," he told investigating officers.

Judge Mitchell complied with his request.

Aimee Offered Big Sum to Settle Magazine Suit

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson has been promised a check for a "considerable amount" today for Look magazine in settlement of her $1,500,000 libel suit, Rev. Giles Knight, her business manager, announced.

"The evangelist charged statements published in the magazine about her and Angeline temple, accompanying pictures, were untrue and tended to injure her career as a religious worker. Their differences were adjusted out of court, Knight said.

Very smooth roads often are "slippery when wet" but this condition is remedied in modern construction by a slightly rough "sandpaper" finish.

U. S. INCOME STEPS AHEAD FOR 4 MONTHS

WASHINGTON. (AP)—The nation's supply of ready cash stood at a new high figure today, while national income had climbed for the fourth consecutive month.

The commerce department's index of income payments to individuals rose from 82.5 per cent of the 1929 level in August to 83.3 per cent in September. The September index was 2.9 points above the low point for the year, but was 8 per cent below the 1937 peak.

Federal reserve experts estimated that bank deposits and currency in circulation had reached the unprecedented total of $57,700,000,000, including a near-record supply of idle funds that might be loaned to stimulate business.

About $6,700,000,000 of the total was in currency and the rest in deposits. The lendable portion of deposits was estimated at $3,280,000,000, compared with normal needs of $500,000,000.

Deposits and currency have expanded by $1,000,000,000 since June 30, largely due to the influx of foreign money seeking a haven from European war threats. The previous peak was in December, 1936.

Boy, 3, Shoots Sister, 5, While Playing With Gun

NEW YORK. (AP)—Policeman Harry Menger, sr., was awoken today by his three-year-old son, Harry, who shook him and cried: "Oh, daddy! My car's hurt!"

The boy led his father to the nursery where he had been sleeping near his sister, Edith Jessica, aged five.

Edith was dead. She had been shot through the head. The policeman's service revolver lay on the floor.

Assistant District Attorney Edward Potter said it was a clear case of accidental shooting—that the boy could not understand what he had done.

Permit me this privilege of free speech on matters at issue in this campaign for Sheriff. I shall stick to the record, refuse to deal in personalities and state truthful facts concerning the campaign.

Sheriff Jackson, in the heat of a campaign for re-election, and without reason told you voters that I planned and intended to appoint as my chief criminal deputy, in the event I am elected, Floyd Howard now Chief of Police of Santa Ana. I wish to refute the sheriff's allegation, and do so here and now. To make this statement broader, let me state I will not appoint Floyd Howard and I have not agreed nor promised to appoint anybody to any position, and shall not until after election. I cannot, as a fair minded man, leave this subject without making these few remarks. I will not flay any citizen because he has been indicted by a grand jury, nor because a criminal complaint has been filed against him. An indictment or a criminal complaint carries no proof of guilt, but is simply a process of law.

I plan to organize a Sheriff's office with the help of my employees, the citizens of this County; with men who are courteous, truthful and of good character and capable of fulfilling the duties of the job to which they are appointed.

Also, reference has been made in several talks by Sheriff Jackson that I am supported by gamblers, racketeers and racketeers. This statement is intended, as I believe, for the purpose of evading the real issue in this campaign and to instill in the thoughts of you citizens that I have asked for or solicited such support. At no time has there been any solicitation of any radicals, gamblers or racketeers of any kind or description to support my candidacy for Sheriff. There will be no person or group of persons solicited to or controlling the Sheriff's office. There will be no such conditions existing in Orange County, as by indication, Sheriff Jackson admits now exists. I have stated many times, and again state, when I am elected Sheriff of Orange County, I will enforce all the laws fearlessly, honestly and sincerely.

Sheriff Jackson, on October 17th, over this station, made the following statement. Quote: "Why do they think Jesse Elliott would turn his back when they are beating and hitting American citizens? Largely, I suppose, because he said he could. That is exactly what he told a radical group in Santa Ana during the primary campaign. He was asked what he would do if he saw union men attempting to persuade nonunion men to leave a job. Jesse Elliott told his radical admirers that he could turn his back." End quote. Let me first state that the meeting referred to was an open forum meeting to which Sheriff Jackson was invited, but did not attend, although the other three candidates in the primary election, including myself, did attend. The question referred to was not asked of me, but was asked of another candidate. The statement that I answered that I could turn my back is false and no such statement was made by me. You citizens of Orange County can rest assured that I am not asking support, and do not want support, from any radical group or any group that has for its purpose the destruction of life, liberty or property. I make this statement for the reason that it has been openly charged, without foundation, by Sheriff Jackson that I was supported by such a group of persons. Let me again state that I stand upon my record as a law enforcement officer in this County for the past nineteen years, and my record should be sufficient answer to all such propaganda.

Duties of a Sheriff are defined by law. The result of their enforcement depends upon the honest purpose of the officer and the extent of his vision toward those laws. He cannot be the Sheriff you want him to be or expect him to be unless his eyes are open to the full four years of his term. I want to assure the voters of Orange County that when I am elected Sheriff, I will never cease to detect and prevent, as far as humanly possible, criminal operation and supremacy.

Gambling seems to be foremost in the mind of my opponent. He states I have not taken a stand in regard thereto. You have been told that the gamblers will take over the County. What does it mean when I have stated many times that I will enforce all the laws, and have told you I stand for law enforcement? That means I have taken a stand on gambling and on any and all forms of law violation. Gambling is against the law. Law enforcement, as I have planned it and as I will take oath to administer it, includes wiping out gambling. As I understand it, and there can be no mis-

WAR SATIRE TO BE STAGED

FULLERTON. — "Bury the Dead," bitter satire on war, will be presented by the Fullerton Junior college drama society, Night-walkers, at 8 p. m. Monday in the high school auditorium.

The play will be in the form of a dramatic reading with 28 persons taking part, reading their lines on a semi-stage. Scenes of the play change so often, this method is best able to bring the thought of the drama through to its climax.

"Bury the Dead" concerns six dead soldiers who refuse to be buried, claiming their spirits cannot rest as long as war, with its misery and horror, continues. The play is symbolical throughout, and Bill Cann, jaycee student, is directing the performance.

POTTERY MADE BY INDIANS IS SHOWN HERE

Early Indian life in Orange county was described by John Winterbourne, head of the WPA anthropological project, at Willard Evening high school auditorium last night.

Winterbourne had a display of Indian pottery, shells, arrowheads, a number of other artifacts, besides a display of food used by the early Indians.

Myths of the Indian religion were related by Winterbourne, who also explained the ceremonies of marriage, birth, death, and others.

The evening high school lecture series will next week hear Calvin C. Flint, dean of men of Santa Ana Junior college. Dr. Carl Knopf, of the University of Southern California, was speaker last week.

BOB BURNS AND FAY BANTER AT BROADWAY

Bob Burns comes to town today with a new leading lady and a new kind of role in "The Arkansas Traveler," opening today at the Broadway theater.

In the new comedy-drama, the "sage of Van Buren" is teamed with Fay Bainter in a human drama of home town life in America. Burns' role is that of a wandering printer who settles down in a small town to help a lady in distress and ends up by revolutionizing the community with his homespun humor and simple American philosophy.

Miss Bainter is cast opposite Burns at the express wish of the star himself. As the widowed newspaper owner, she is instrumental in getting the happy vagabond to root for her while under her wing. To help her win out against a gang of corrupt politicians, Burns takes over the editorship of her newspaper and strikes out at her enemies in the best tradition of the crusading country editor.

Burns and Miss Bainter, the central figures in the story, are supported by a cast of the screen's best liked players. Irvin S. Cobb is the local sheriff and buddy of "The Traveler." The romantic leads are taken by John Beal and Jean Parker, and others in the cast are Dickie Moore, Lyle Talbot and Porter Hall.

Second attraction is "Broadway Musketeers," exciting romantic melodrama of life in a big city, featuring Marie Wilson, Ann Sheridan, Margaret Lindsay and John Littel.

Will Help You With Your Clothes Problem. Write Her!

Margaret B. has asked me "what kind of skirts and blouses are there wearing this year?" And the blouse question sets me off writing at once—for it is quite a fashion trick to pick just the right blouse for just the right skirt or suit this season, when blouses are as varied and numerous as morning cereals—and suits are just about as bewildering too!

You pick your blouse according to your suit.

For instance, if you have a dressy black wool trimmed in Persian lamb, then your interest goes toward the frilly satin blouses, or dressy latex sheers, or stunning metallic cloths. But if, on the other hand, you are wearing a plaid tweed jacket with a wool skirt, it will undoubtedly be a good-looking sweater for you. Oh, it can be a blouse too, only this is a very "sweaty" season in casual clothes.

Yet if a blouse is your preference still, then you will want a tailored cotton shirt like a boys or at best a crepe which is very severe in cut with nothing more than tucks for decoration.

Now for a mannish suit of hard-finished wool, however, there is another blouse situation. Here you can have something feminine again, such as a lovely silk crepe with a frill or stunning hemstitching or other handwork. There are lovely "soft" suit-blouses that can be worn here if you feel in that mood. But at the same time, you can go more tailored, too, even to the sweater. And all this depends upon the other accessories that tie-up—particularly the hat and the shoes!

Then there are blouses that act as half-dresses! For the sensational Gibson Girl theme is still very good—you know, that combination of black skirt with blouses, soft full waist and a gay, wide belt? Romantic things of white chiffon or soft metallic are combined with black skirts (and always the stunning belt) to make either an afternoon dress or dinner costume. Which depends upon the length of the skirt only.

Oh, waists are going places and doing things this season!

"RED BADGE OF COURAGE" IS ORDINARY ROUGE TO WOMEN

Women readers are still on the warpath over the efforts of one male correspondent, "Achilles," who sarcastically criticized woman's present day hairdress, make-up, attire and mannerisms.

A woman's lipstick is her "red badge of courage," answers one woman, and adds that women need their vanities.

Another correspondent writes to inquire how the metallic-minded "Achilles" failed to overlook the case of poor Lula Belle, who fell for the soft words of a desperado.

Their letters follow:

Dear Miss Stoddard: I'll just confine my letter to one phase of modern woman's so-called folly. Lipstick and fingernail polish!

Let me inform "Achilles" and all of the other "smug" males who make fun that lipstick and nail polish have become symbols to women. They give us courage, help us to hold up our heads among women, to meet men with assurance. They are badges of femininity and desirability.

And if any women in the country need such symbols, they are the women who have hurt pride, who have only the barest necessities for living, the ones who can't afford pretty underwear and smart dresses. Yet, Mr. "Achilles," preening himself for public approval, and giving vent to his aristocratic airs through a column which he knows hundreds of women read, dares to accuse women of killing romance because they go about with chips up and a brave manner to hide many a heartache caused by some man!

All of this is no exaggeration. Women need their vanities. They need to feel that they are attractive. Many an old-time family doctor urged a complaining woman to spend some money on clothes, to take a trip, to fix up the living room—instead of prescribing bottled tonics.

And here we are, in an age that pretends to know something about psychology, trying to take the symbols of pride away. Oh, well, perhaps we shouldn't be quite so harsh, because I guess no man can possibly know how much courage fresh lipstick can give a woman. A man can go down the avenue whistling to build up his ego or lift up his spirits—lipstick is to woman what whistling is to a man.

HOW DID HE OVERLOOK IT?

Dear Miss Stoddard: I expected "Achilles-the-Great" would write again, but, my, I'm disappointed in him! How does it happen that he didn't bring up the unfortunate case of Lula Belle Kimmel, the fat daughter of a small town jaller, in his second rantings against our sex.

What an excellent opportunity for "Achilles" to shout "just like a woman!" with that righteous disgust in his voice.

Yes, Lula Belle did a terrible thing, for her soft-heartedness is reported to have resulted in a holdup murder. Men will condemn her—women will feel sorry for her, and this is a good example, too, of Mr. "Achilles" denunciation of the strong women standing up for their weak sisters.

"And why" you will ask, "are women sorry for Lula Belle?" Well, I'll tell you. There she was, too fat for beaux, knowing only men that her father put behind bars. She hated being fat and unattractive—until a prisoner came along who knew a little about women.

He noticed that Lula Belle had a pleasant, low voice—and he told her so. He told her the new dress she was wearing was pretty. And

PROBATION IN MORALS CASE TO BE ASKED

David W. Mann, Brea WPA worker, was scheduled to go before Superior Judge H. G. Ames this afternoon in a plea for probation.

Mann was convicted of a felony morals offense assertedly committed with a young negro transient in an orange orchard near Fullerton after Mann had left a baseball game and walked down the railroad tracks.

He was convicted partly on testimony of Newman Golden, the negro transient, who in turn was convicted by a jury of tying Mann in the orchard and robbing him of clothing and valuables. Golden now is awaiting a probation hearing before Superior Judge G. K. Seovel.

Wire Strike Ends

CHICAGO. (AP)—Striking employees of the Postal Telegraph company returned to their jobs under a temporary agreement reducing the work week from 48 hours to 46.

finally he told Lula Belle that she was beautiful.

Of course, she knew she wasn't beautiful. But that didn't matter. Most of us know we aren't beautiful—but we think it is entirely possible for the men who love us to think so. We even expect them to.

So Lula Belle thought this young prisoner was in love with her. And no man had ever been before. She couldn't bear to think that he might die in the state's gas chamber—this man who said her voice was low and pretty, who noticed her clothes, and told her—and no one had ever looked twice at her before—that she was beautiful.

Nope, the proud "Achilles" wouldn't understand because didn't he make fun of his sister, whom he described as "a short stout" in his previous letter? Well, maybe "comparisons are odious" but shouldn't this cause "Achilles" to at least pause and think a bit?

Lathrop Junior High School Notes

LATHROP OPERETTA

Glee club students have started this term with a bang. After studying the possibilities of several operettas, "The Lady of the Terrace" has been selected. The role of leading lady has been given to Kathryn Stockton and the leading man is Bill Chandler. Kathryn plays the part of Clara Chandler, daughter of a New York business man, while Bill has the part of the Sir Gerald of Craughmont Castle, a young Irishman.

Wanda Hubbard was chosen to be Lady Eileen Stanford, Gerald's aunt. Pauline Struck has taken over the part of Peggy Craughmont, Gerald's younger sister. Betty Shidler has the part of Molly O'Hara, an Irish servant. Janice Wallingford sings the role of Lady Mary. David Poole very easily falls into the part of Sir Clarence, a distant English cousin. Kenneth Crumley plays opposite Betty Shidler as Betty's wife and also the Irish servant, Marvin Mendenhall has taken the part of Mr. John Chandler, the New York business man.

Winklepeck completes the cast of characters as Squire Michael, the villain of the story. There are plenty of jokes, beautiful costumes and good acting in this year's operetta and those who have known and enjoyed Lathrop operettas in the past will feel satisfied that this year's performance will reach the usual high standard of entertainment and musical talent.

CAFETERIA HOSTESSES

This term the Lathrop cafeteria is using a different set of hostesses who are chosen from Mrs. Ethel Sinke's foods classes each week. The girls are acting as the hostesses would in any tearoom in directing the crowds, acquainting new members with the cafeteria and seeing that everything is done to make for good order and correct hospitable service.

Those on duty this week are Jeannette Brown, Beverly Hutton, Marilyn Kientz, Shirley Leimer, Lorene Vaught and Mary Ellen Upchurch.

STUDENT COURT

After two exciting elections to break a tie in votes, Jean McWilliams and Jack Musick were finally victorious over their opponents; Lenore Walker and Homer Chaney, for judges of the student body court.

The main purposes of the organization are to uphold the constitution of Lathrop student body and to promote and maintain high citizenship standards among the students.

The judges, a boy and a girl selected from the third year class, will call meetings of the court at stated times; they must preside at all meetings and keep all records. They must hear, impartially, all evidences pertaining to cases. Unless special cases arise, the court will convene just once each month.

The jury selected from the first year pupils are Rosemary Brown, Phil Witmer; from second year students, Marion Standing and Don Ouster, and third year jury-men are Lenore Walker and Roger Howell. The vice-principal, Mr. Aubrey Glines, sponsors this organization.

EUODIA CLUB

The Euodia club at Lathrop, a branch of a national religious organization, has a large membership of interested girls. The purpose is social and religious; each meeting is spent in some definite spiritual study of Bible stories led by Miss Irene Hunter who has charge of many other similar clubs in Los Angeles and Orange county junior highs.

The officers elected last week are: President, Ruth Marian Childs; vice-president, Ethel Mae Hase; secretary, Lorena Mashburn; prayer leader, Virginia Planchon; assistant prayer leader, Mary Louise Danielson; recording secretary, Daphne Culver.

Every summer the girls of Euodia club take a trip which is always an enjoyable outing and much anticipated by the girls.

HALLOWEEN CELEBRATED

First year classes, who are studying breakfasts this quarter, are learning how to make orange biscuits to surprise their families on Halloween morning. Second year girls who are studying the box lunches are making steamed brown bread and from it making intriguing jack o' lantern sandwiches.

Third year classes are having pastry lessons and are making pumpkin pies this week.

Even the first year guidance class, also under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Sinke, have been touching on the subject of Halloween along with their present study of courtesy by emphasizing the regard for private property.

GIRL SCOUT SUNDAY

An invitation has been issued to Girl Scouts of Lathrop to attend the special services being arranged for their benefit at the First Presbyterian church next Sunday, Oct. 30, at 10:30 a. m. The occasion is national Girl Scout Sunday. Seventh grade active members are Peggy Klevner, Muriel Van Hoy, Marybelle Ladd, Betty Lou Loy, Ann Flanagan and Marian Funakoshi.

BOYS' SERVICE CLUB

The Boys' Service club, who convene each Friday for luncheon together, have issued invitations to 10 new members to join them next week. The week after their first attendance, initiation will take place. Those invited to join are Paul Schwartz, Bill Warne, Joe Patterson, Wayne Burnett, Dean Whitmore, Bill Dart, Wally Hamaker, Ray Wolven, Bill Blackwell and Bruce Mathews.

SEA SHELLS

A display of sea shells is attracting much attention this week in the exhibit cases in the rotunda. Mrs. Ruth Archer's first year girls who are studying science are responsible for the display. While they have not gathered these as a class unit, the girls individually have taken such an interest in the subject of sea life that they have brought in and classified, by scientific name, the large collection. The committee for arranging the display include Colleen Allen, Barbara Brooks, Freda Cornelius, Rebecca Franklin, Norma Jeanne Jaberg, Carolyn Koral and Jeanne Rutledge.

STUART'S MARCH

One of the most amazing feats in military history was the speedy return of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart to Virginia after a successful raid on Chambersburg, Pa., a Union stronghold. On orders from General Lee, Stuart had advanced north to Chambersburg on Oct. 10, 1862, with 1800 men. Next day he was successful in destroying military supplies of the Union army, and captured 500 good cavalry horses. On his return to Virginia, Stuart picked up a total of 1200 horses. Encumbered by these and by his artillery, he was forced to exercise the greatest care in riding clear around the Union army of the Potomac--for the second time within a few months. So exhausted became Union General McClellan's command in chasing Stuart that nearly all of his cavalry horses broke down, rendering a remount indispensable before he could advance on the enemy. Stuart reached the shores of Virginia at noon of Oct. 12, having had but one man wounded and two captured. Stuart's raid brought General Lee much valuable information.

The Citrus Agreement

The new citrus agreement, proposed at a Washington conference, and effective if approved by the growers, should improve the orange industry. Most growers are unable to see in it a solution, but it does contain remedial provisions in that it requires the cooperation of Florida and Texas, which have hitherto free-lanced and thereby imposed a hardship upon those fruit-producing states which have operated under a prorate. The accord requires that the two offending states unite with others in shipping agreements.

Purchase of surplus stock will remove only the lower grades of fruit, which will go into by-products. The government should not be required to use taxpayers' money to buy surpluses. Adequate control by withholding from the market surplus fruit would naturally improve the price of the fruit offered. Growers could voluntarily agree to surrender their percentage of fruit in excess years without asking the government to buy the lower grades. However, inasmuch as the purchased surplus goes to relief sources, the competitive feature is considerably reduced.

This is provided for largely in the agreement that the industry itself keep from competitive markets an equal amount of fruit purchased by the government.

Local growers see no permanent relief from the situation until there is an orderly marketing system adopted. This must apply, as the prospects due to increased acreage means a steadily increasing amount of fruit. As the immediate situation stands, the matter is largely in the hands of Florida growers. If they unite with other orange-producing states there will be an improvement. Otherwise the situation will continue chaotic.

Many students of citriculture and agriculture claim the industries should stand on their own feet, and that the problems should not be thrown into the government crucible; that the only reason these questions go there now is because the influence toward solution is greater. The problems should be settled by the respective industries through cooperation. It is the self-preservation method.

There are many who argue that the entire issue could be solved if fruit was sold f.o.b. instead of by the "tramp car" system. Sell the oranges before they start rolling.

After all, it must be admitted that the federal conference has clarified the situation, and growers can look more hopefully forward to better prices.

What's a Pledge to a Jap?

The government yesterday revealed that three weeks ago it had handed a note to Tokyo protesting that the famous "open door" to China had been closed and a sign practically nailed on it reading "For Japanese Traders Only."

Japan had often promised that the open door would stay open and that Americans and others could trade in China on an equal basis with the Japanese.

Before this the United States has protested to Japan, and each protest has brought polite assurances from Tokyo that the door to China would stay open.

And after each assurance, it might be added, Japan has closed the door a little more.

Americans were run out of Manchuria, despite similar promises, when Japan had completed capture of that country, and you can expect history to repeat itself.

The Japanese are not inspired by any of the Christian virtues in capturing China. It's strictly a practical business, you may be assured, with the purpose of adding to the wealth and power of Japan. Japan has no intention of permitting Americans to cut in on the trade of China, her foreign office statements to the contrary notwithstanding.

British trade interests in China are 10 times those of the United States. Japan must have a market for her silk and other products, and she must have oil and other essentials she does not herself produce. Her dependence upon American and British commerce is a vital factor in her existence—more important than the immediate prospects of exploiting half-beaten China.

Great Britain and the United States could bring Japan around to seeing the light of reason quickly by using economic methods, by refusing to buy her silk and preventing her from getting oil.

But Great Britain and the United States are not likely to do that. Economic experts have pointed out that these two nations could have stopped the massacre of China long ago by using such methods, but they didn't.

A review of recent history would indicate that Japan will continue to promise an open door to China, and with each promise she'll shut the door another inch.

Eureka!

Among the wonders at the New York World's Fair are to be a number of sobering-up stations, equipped with newly developed machines which are said to restore a drunken person—even one who has passed out—to complete sobriety in two hours.

These machines do the suffering patient with carbon dioxide gas, which burns up the alcohol in his system and leaves him with no jitters, no headache, no nausea, no illusion that he's being chased by little green men with snickersnaps and plug hats.

We've heard it said that the sure cure for the depression would be some new invention, like the automobile, for which there would be so wide a demand that quantity production would make jobs for millions of men. Advance notices of the sobering-up machine's remarkable merits lead us to suspect that the great invention is here at last.

Fair Enough

NEW YORK. — Several times lately these dispatches have been accused of anti-Italian feeling.

Well, the Italian nation, under Mussolini, has fostered anti-American feeling for a long time, and a review written in Rome recently reported that it was safe to say that not one word favorable to the United States had appeared in print in Italy in two years.

Mussolini's press, which speaks only with the approval of the government and thus obviously expresses sentiments to which the government desires to give voice, repeatedly has called this country a nation of gangsters, a charge which plainly includes all those Americans, loyal to this country, who were born in Italy or born here of parents who came from Italy.

If an American publication were to call these Americans "gangsters" they would be deeply offended and with good reason. But when Mussolini's press calls them gangsters there is no audible outcry. This lack of expression may be due to the lack of means of expression independent of the extended influence of fascist Rome. Only a comparatively few Americans of Italian birth or blood actively sympathize with Mussolini and fascism, and Mussolini presently will discover that he has made a clumsy mistake in addressing insults to the nation for which they have patriotism.

It is the Italian press thought to curvy favor with this element of Americans by calling them gangsters it made a serious psychological error.

Some loyal Americans, including Americans who never save Italy, have found it difficult to admit to themselves that the Italy of Mussolini and fascism is a foe to democracy. The United States long ago withdrew from the export trade in democracy and does not now attempt to push its line of government in other countries. There are no Americans in Italy guilty of effrontery comparable to that of the duke's unofficial governor-general of the unofficial Italian colony of New York, who presumes to warn loyal Americans of Italian birth or descent to refrain from certain expressions.

It seems not to be realized that the so-called Italo-American element in this country has a great power to moderate the attitude of Italy toward this country. If these Americans can be of service to him they also can be of equal service against Mussolini, remembering, of course, that Italy constantly tries to organize their influence in Italy's favor.

It is worth remembering that it is impossible these days to ascertain just what is the state of relations between Mussolini's Italy and other nations, including, of course, this one. Italy has not yet declared war on Abyssinia, for example, but has made war on that country, nevertheless; invaded and bombed it, captured its capital and absorbed it. Italy has not declared war on the legal government of Spain, nor has Japan declared war on China, nor Germany on Austria or Czechoslovakia.

Thus Americans of Italian birth or blood who permit themselves from force of sentiment to condone or defend the course of the Italy of today and are instinctively hurt by criticism of Italy, are permitting Mussolini to make use of them.

All this is painful, but the sincerity of Mussolini's feeling for these Americans may be judged from the fact that he himself detests and severely punishes people whom he even suspects of harboring the slightest affection for any other country.

NO YODELING

In Italy, under Mussolini, one cannot be an Austro-Italian or a Jugo-Italian. He choked off the native languages of captured minorities, compelled them to Italianize their names, erased the foreign names from the headstones in their graveyards and even went to the absurdly ruthless extreme of forbidding his captured Austrians to yodel.

He obviously has only contempt for persons who call themselves Italo-Americans, just as Hitler can only despise those who permit themselves to be called German-Americans, although both dictators, being without conscience, naturally make all possible use of Italo-American or German-American sentiment.

Mussolini and Hitler both are imposing on the sentiments of many Americans of foreign birth or blood and playing them for suckers.

In Italy and Germany no man is allowed two guesses as to whether he is all Italian or 100 per cent German.

Science News

By DR. FRANK THONE
Science Service Writer

With the lion's share of a continent at our disposal, we Americans are rather given to thinking of wildlife conservation in very large and spacious terms. The idea that anything worth while can be done in less than a thousand square miles seems hardly worth considering.

Yet two of Europe's smaller countries, Denmark and the Netherlands, have well-worked-out systems for the protection and encouragement of wildlife, despite the intensive utilization of the last inch of cultivable land necessitated by their limited territories and dense populations.

In Denmark, the government may create wildlife preserves, upon suitable compensation to the landowners. But landowners themselves may set up preserves if they so desire, with the scientific advice and assistance of the government. Two types of wildlife preserves are provided for, intended respectively for game-protection and scientific purposes.

In the Netherlands the cause of wildlife conservation is a genuinely popular one. There is a well-organized society for nature protection, with a membership of 13,000, who are backed by other and even larger organizations such as the bicyclists' union, with over 100,000 members. These groups have been so well able to swing public opinion—not to mention fiscal legislation—that in the past 31 years no less than 39 game and wildlife sanctuaries have been established.

As in Denmark, private landowners are encouraged to put some of their lands to use for the benefit of wildlife. In the Netherlands, this encouragement takes the practical and highly tempting form of a partial remission of taxation. As a result, more than 325,000 acres, with a total of over 125,000 acres, have taken advantage of this law—and given the country the advantage of their utilization as homes for game and wildlife.

What Other Editors Say

The human mind tends to do things by extremes. For years, almost a generation, it was hard to get people in the United States to listen to the desirability of providing public financial aid for those who had reached an age unacceptable to the world of work. Then suddenly the old-age pension idea took hold. Now the concern of many genuine liberals, including some of the early sponsors of the program, is to keep pensions from running away with themselves and the country.

The "30-Every-Thursday" movement in California is only the most conspicuous of a dozen proposals in as many states to increase sharply the size and volume of pensions to be paid on the basis of an age qualification. A number of them would more than double the prevailing pensions under the Social Security act.

While California's voters ballot on the "30-Every-Thursday" Plan on Nov. 8, the citizens of Colorado will be voting on a referendum proposition to increase the $45-a-month level of pensions established in that state. Colorado has found that amount hard to pay. The pension fund has not been enough to keep up the payments promised; the earmarking of sales tax and other important revenues for pensions has left little for other welfare activities.

The theory of the Townsend plan and of the more recent "30-Every-Thursday" plan is, of course, that the distribution of buying power will generate enough new business for the pensioners to furnish their own revenues. Undoubtedly thousands have genuinely believed this. Fuller examination, however, will indicate that benefits from better distribution of buying power are much smaller than the extreme pension proponents imagine.

Regarding the transactions tax embodied in the Townsend plan, even the committee on old age security under the liberal auspices of the Twentieth Century fund, one of the most friendly authorities that could be called to testify, found that the tax as the standard of living of the average man by one-third. The reduction of this plan to a proposal to pay simply what pensions could be provided by a 2 per cent gross income tax is a long step in moderation, though all the usual objections to a gross income tax remain.

The "30-Every-Thursday" proposal contemplates that the pensions would be paid in scrip or dollar warrants which would depreciate two cents each week unless stamped by payment of a tax. If that amount for the pension fund. The theory is that these would circulate rapidly to avoid tax. According to economic experience the probabilities are either that merchants and banks would keep them from circulating at all by refusing to accept them or that in accordance with Gresham's law of currency the bad money would displace good money in circulation to the extent that it was issued.

In that case merchants would have to absorb the 2 per cent tax on sales or raise prices by that tax. If prices rose the state would be no better off in terms of living standards.

As a matter of justice, the question is one of equitable division between the old folks and the rest of the people. No one can really want them to have less than is fair and certainly they do not want and cannot benefit by more than is fair in relation to other needs of the country.

As a matter of governmental policy the question is one of how much responsibility should be taken by the public and how much should remain with the individual or his relatives.

The economic capacity for pensions, as for any other good, depends in the last analysis not on the amount of money in circulation but on the working productivity of the country. Every respect in the world is due to the beneficent objectives of pension plans and to the sincere people who have worked for them, but such plans are made to work only by taking account of the facts. One can well understand the appeal of a toothsome slogan like "Ham and Eggs," such as has been used in the California campaign, but it is still true that eggs come from hens and that the principal source of man is pigs.—Christian Science Monitor.

About The Bills

NO. 14, REMOVAL OF JUDGES UPON CONVICTION OF CRIME

This measure is a constitutional amendment proposed by the assembly after Judge Gavin Craig continued to draw salary while serving a jail term from a federal court conviction. It provides that on conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude judges shall be suspended from office and their salaries suspended until conviction becomes final, when he shall be discharged. If the conviction is reversed his salary will be restored and he will be returned to office.

Assemblymen who proposed the bill say there is not now any provision for removal of a convicted judge, and add that the omission was emphasized when Judge Craig was convicted of attempting to obstruct justice in a federal case and yet held office for more than a year. The measure is sponsored by the State Bar of California.

Opponents claim the amendment is defective, and say that a judge would continue to hold office if he were able to get a stay of sentence. They criticize the phrase "moral turpitude" as being hard to define, and say an innocent judge might be penalized by this amendment.

AN HONORABLE STATE

In the mind of Themistocles persisted a dream of transferring the government of Greece from the hands of Lacedaemonians into those of the Athenians. At length he intimated to the assembly that he had an important design to propose, but secrecy being essential to its success, he could relate its details to only one man.

Aristides was unanimously chosen to hear him, and to this worthy Themistocles confided a plan to burn the fleet belonging to the rest of the Grecian states lying in a near-by port, which doubtless would make Athens mistress of all Greece.

"What do you think of it?" the assembly asked. Aristides, even before he could reveal the plan he had heard.

"Nothing could be more advantageous to the state," he replied, "but nothing in the world could be more unfair."

Without hearing any more, the assembly rejected Themistocles' plan.—Christian Science Monitor.

Some Traffic

By CHIEF E. RAYMOND CATO
California Highway Patrol

Q—What is the penalty provided by law when a person has been convicted of driving while intoxicated but no one has been injured as a result of crash? Mrs. S.A.E.

A—Upon first conviction from 30 days to six months in the county jail and a fine from $50 to $500 and upon subsequent conviction, imprisonment in the county jail for not to exceed one year and a fine not to exceed $1,000 or both.

Q—I have often come upon an electric railroad crossing in the outlying districts to find the wig wag signal operating but no cars approaching nearby. How long am I supposed to wait before crossing at such a place and under conditions mentioned? D.M.C.

A—Under such circumstances the law requires that you first bring your vehicle to a complete stop not more than 50 nor less than 100 feet from the nearest rail-way track and if you can proceed safely, to do so.

Q—Can a person be arrested and prosecuted for shooting at official road signs? G.T.J.

A—Section 474 of the vehicle code states: "No person shall shoot or attempt to shoot at any official traffic sign or signal or guide post or historical marker."

Q—What does a green color paint stripe mean on a curb? Mrs. E. J. McD.

A—It means that local authorities have selected the place for limited parking, sometimes for only 10 minutes, for the convenience of the public. The time limit is usually painted on the curb, also.

Q—Coming up from Fresno yesterday I sounded my horn to signal a slow driver ahead of me that I wanted to pass. Just as I got opposite his car he speeded up and nearly caused me to run into an oncoming car. Is there no law against such foolish and mean drivers? C. M. L.

A—The law is plain on that point. The driver of the overtaken vehicle should not increase his speed. Such a driver as you mention was subject to arrest and punishment.

Q—Can I cause the arrest of a traffic violator who on at least two occasions has deliberately cut in front of my car, causing me to run into a tree, the first time, and into a water hydrant the second time, causing damage to my car. This driver only laughs and shrugs his shoulders and says, "Do I have to wait until some traffic officer sees such an offense before I can secure redress? Miss O.R.H.

A—You have every right to file a complaint in any competent court and ask for the removal of the offender. No officer could make the arrest, without a warrant, inasmuch as it is a misdemeanor and the law prohibits officers from making such arrests when the offense is not committed in their presence.

THE REMAKING OF A NAME

When Mme. Modjeska first arrived in the United States, her name was not the beautiful one which Americans soon learned to love, but was "Modzejevska," in fact, that name never remained her professional one in the theaters of her native Poland and in Europe, where she attained some of her greatest triumphs and honors long before she dreamed of conquering a new world.

It was John McCullough, noted American tragedian, with whom she first acted in San Francisco, who decided upon her new name. When confronted with "Modzejevska," he said to her: "Who on earth could read that, Madame? I fear you will be compelled to change your name."

She suggested "Modjeska," which McCullough smiling said would remind the public of "Madagascar." The "g" was then alternated to "j."

"Now," the tragedian said, "it is quite easy to read, and it is beautiful to the ear."

And thus the name "Modjeska" was made and lived to twinkle over half the world.

A HUMBLE SPIRIT

Once after Abraham Lincoln had become recognized as the leader of the Illinois bar, he went away to Cincinnati to participate in a case, where he met a well-educated Eastern lawyer. In deep dejection Mr. Lincoln returned to his home and to a friend said, "I am really going to study law."

"Why, what are you talking about?" replied his friend. "You stand at the head of the Illinois bar now."

"Yes, I do occupy a good place there," said Mr. Lincoln, "and things stand there now I can imagine to get along. But it will not be long before college-trained men, who have devoted all their lives to study, will come West. They study their cases as we never do. They have traveled as far as Cincinnati now. Soon they will be in Illinois. I am therefore going to study more law. I am as good as any of these eastern men, and when they get out to Illinois I am going to be ready for them."

I'LL TELL YOU....

BY BOB BURNS

One reason why Hollywood has made so many mistakes in pictures is because producers figured the public would like whatever they did. Now they're beginnin' to take the advice of the theater managers over the country because they realize managers are the boys that know what the public wants.

Not long ago a big producer visited a little town where his picture was being shown for the first time. When the audience started to boo and hiss the picture, the producer turned to the little manager and says, "Listen at those people: I declare I don't know what public wants!" The manager says, "Well, now that ain't so hard to figure. In this case, I want the money back!"

DALE CARNEGIE'S

Day—By—Day Philosophy

When Stanley Baldwin became Prime Minister of England for the first time, he immediately called on Lord Oxford, his most severe critic, and asked for his advice. There is common sense for you and sportsmanship and humility. If Stanley Baldwin could profit by asking advice of his adversaries, perhaps you can too. Why not be as broad-minded and eager to learn as Baldwin? Why not go to your severest critics and honestly seek their advice? If you do, four things will happen.

1. You will make a friend of your critic. He will be immensely pleased to have you seek his advice.

2. You will learn something. We learn more from our critics than from our blind, unquestioning admirers.

3. You will broaden your outlook.

4. You will increase your self-respect because it takes a big man to do what Baldwin did.

On bright nights, two or three men set up telescopes on 42nd street opposite the public library, and charge five to ten cents for a look at the moon. I watched a couple of these star-gazing merchants operate the other night. The man who charged ten cents a look was getting four times as many cash customers as the man who charged only a nickel. Why? Well, for one thing, you looked through a bigger telescope for ten cents. But the main reason for the financial success of the larger telescope was the personality of the man in charge of it. He had one of the most magnetic and irresistible qualities on earth; enthusiasm. He radiated it. He talked about the stars with such excitement that you couldn't resist the temptation to have a look. He made you want to see what he saw. The man with the nickel telescope wasn't a salesman. He said nothing; he merely took orders.

Here were two men in the same line of business, doing business within a fiftiness of each other, both selling the same thing—look at the moon. Yet one of these men was taking in five times as much money as his competitor. Why? Because the successful man had enthusiasm. He was tremendously interested in his subject and he wanted to tell you about it. If you want to get ahead in life, cultivate enthusiasm. It is priceless.

The late King George V of England had these words hanging on the wall of his library: "Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor over spilt milk."

Why not pause and ask yourself how much of your unhappiness is due to either crying for the lunar orb or bemoaning the loss of cream that has already disappeared down the kitchen sink?

Old stuff. Sure it is old stuff; but the man who ruled over one fifth of the human race needed to be reminded of it every day. So do you and I.
